Residents Want N. Austin Added To Paving Plan

Petition Seeking 6 Blocks

A petition for six more blocks of paving on North Austin went before City Councilmen Tuesday while street paving projects drew major interest in a semi-monthly Council meeting.

Herman Hanel, Cameron businessman, presented a petition asking paving along North Austin from 16th Street to 22nd Street.

Mayor E. A. Perrin and councilmen asked Hanel, who is voluntarily seeking signatures on the paving petition, to get all, if possible, local residents along the street to sign the petition.

The street department's paving program showed 22nd Street itself, from Karnes to the city limits west, has been paved.

A base for paving on E. 16th St. and North Washington from 12th to 22nd Street has been put down by city workmen, and Street Supt. Hale said hot mix paving on these streets was scheduled. Councilmen told Hanel it would be next year before any work could be done on North Austin because of the schedule of paving work well underway this year.

SIGNATURES URGED

But Mayor Perrin encouraged the signing of the petition so that paving plans can be made.

Mayor Perrin also noted the need to put in about 300 feet of plastic or used piping along a West Fourth St. residence frontage to carry drainage out of a yard, Council approved.

Mayor pro tem Starrett Hickman expressed concern over high speed police chases outside the city limits, following "radicals" at "extreme" speeds.

Police Chief John Shearin said Cameron officers have followed three vehicles outside the city limits in the past year, the most recent pursuing a man to the Marlow area.

Chief Shearin said there was a time when people knew Cameron police would not pursue and that an officer sometime must pursue a speeding car. He said it was a matter of judgment, which he felt his staff demonstrated.

Mayor Perrin and City Atty. Ed Magre both said officer discretion in such cases is necessary, but Mayor Perrin urged police to note license plates, where possible, and pick up any local suspects later, rather than pursue at high speeds.

Milam Chili Wins Pasadena Cheers

A chili recipe from Matchless Milam County dubbed '1845 Z-X' will test the taste buds of chili eaters extraordinaire at a World Championship chili cook-off this fall.

Dick Slocumb, guardian of the top secret recipe of a pioneer Milam County family, will represent the Pasadena Pod of the Ship Channel Chapter of the Chili Appreciation Society International at the annual Republic of Texas chilympiad in San Marcos' Aqua Springs September 18-19.

Slocumb, chairman of the board of regents of San Jacinto College and a Cameron area native, was selected in Pasadena Saturday at a $75-a-bowl chili breakfast.

Nat Henderson of the Austin American reported the breakfast, which attracted "some of the most distinguished chili heads in the Houston Ship Channel area" was held at the Pasadena Club under the cover of both darkness and air pollution at 5 a.m., because Slocumb insisted on the early hour to insure that his '1845-Z-X' chili recipe remained secret.

Pasadena Chili Society members tempers flared Saturday when rumor circulated that the 1845 Z-X chili didn't actually date back to the days of the Republic of Texas.

Tex Adams, publisher of the Pasadena News Citizen and Grand Podentate of the Pasadena Pod, said "We suspect some of the Cucamonga crowd from California and Arizona are spreading vicious tales because the Pasadena Pod refused to eat green chili cooked by C. V. Wood at Terlingua last fall."

Adams was referring to the Cucamonga, California, Chapter of the Chili Appreciation Society International and Arizona millionaire C. V. Wood, a chili enthusiast who is also credited with buying the London Bridge "as a centerpiece for a real estate development at Lake Havasu City, Arizona."

Adams said Wood's chili contained chicken, pork chops and green peppers and "was without even the slightest red coloring of normal chili. It was so green you'd think he bought it at Shannon Airport in Ireland on the way back with the London Bridge."

But despite color, Carroll Shelby, famed racing driver and chief chili pepper of the California Cucamonga chapter, voted for the Arizona recipe.

But Pasadena says California and Arizona won't have a chance this year against the time-tested Milam County chili.

Slocumb, 46 and a general insurance man in Pasadena for the last 28 years, credits his grandfather Samuel J. Slocumb with first planting the secret chili ingredient in a patch on his Milam County river-bottom farm in 1845. His descendants are said to guard the special patch and the recipe is handed down to the oldest son in each generation.

Auction To Benefit W-L Park

Over $1,300 in merchandise will be auctioned by Noon Lions Club on the courthouse lawn Saturday July 25, to benefit a renovation of Wilson-Ledbetter Park.

A list of 78 items that will interest sportsmen, gardeners, farmer, homemaker or the fashion-minded, will be on display for the 8 a.m. to 12 noon auction.

Chairman for the auction is George Jones with co-chairman Gene Smitherman and committeemen Ed Laywell and Delbert Burlison. Jones said the Lions Club will be in full force Saturday to handle bidding.

A complete list of items to be auctioned appears on page 11 of The Herald. Bids may be made in person or called in to 697-6633 or 697-6634.

Noon Lions Club pledged $1,000 a year to the City of Cameron for beautification work at the sprawling Wilson-Ledbetter Park. It is the second effort to make the park more attractive for community use. Boy Scout Troop 752 assisted by the Fleur de lis Garden Club refurbished the Boy Scout House and surrounding grounds last spring.

The park, established in the 1930s, has a lake, five permanent buildings and swimming pool in addition to picnic and rodeo area.

One Among 'Dozen' ... Herald Essay Published

A Herald editorial is included in a limited edition of 12 editorials judged the "Golden Dozen" in 1970 competition by the International Conference of Weekly Newspaper Editors.

It is one of a series of honors and developments citing 1970 Herald accomplishments in news commentary, technology and publishing.

Richard Taylor, editor of the Kennett News and Advertiser, Kennett Square, Penna., received the "Golden Quill Award" from among the 12 finalists during a dinner sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi last week in St. Louis.

Inclusion of The Herald editorial was advised by telephone earlier in the month by Howard Rusk Long, secretary-treasurer of ICWNE and head of journalism at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill.

STATE-NATIONAL

Editor-publisher Frank M. Luecke is author of the editorial included in the anthology published by ICWNE. Luecke's editorials and columns this spring were cited by a "Golden Pencil Award", one of three given in Texas.

A feature by Luecke on the impact of computer - offset journalism is appearing this month in the University of Missouri School of Journalism's Alumni News.

The Herald is converting all of its front-office accounting, subscription and mailing procedures to one computer while installing phototype composition, doubling tape-driven capacity of The Herald's typesetting department.

Converted to semi-weekly last November and to offset in January, 1970, The Herald is one of few non-dailies in the country computerizing throughout business, mailing and composition departments.

Luecke said it is possible "we will be the only computerized newspaper outside daily journalism."

Winners in the "Golden Quill" editorial competition came from eight states and Canada. The Herald was the only "Golden Dozen" finalist from the Southwest.

IF GOOD ENOUGH

"If we are good enough," Luecke said, "we hope to raise non-metro journalism to 21st Century technical possibility and to approach classic perspective in news and commentary. These developments may be a start."

Conversion to photo-typesetting, a system of setting reading type and small heads, is scheduled in early August. Equipment already has arrived.

Complete conversion to computer on the business and circulation sides is anticipated by August 1. The process has been underway since May.

Luecke is chairman of the public notice committee of National Newspaper Assoc. and was chairman of the resolutions committee during the 1970 convention of Texas Press Assoc. in Houston. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri, B. J. '53.

In its 11th year, the semi-weekly Herald is one of the half-dozen oldest newspapers in Texas.

News editor is Mrs. Bess Jeter. News and feature writers are Mrs. Frank Luecke and Lloyd Albertson. Mrs. Billie Seaton is in charge of tape production.

111 With F.M.L.

We disturb people by rejecting "either or" journalism in an "either or" world.

As things now move, the world one day in the future may go to an encompassing view when "either or" may mean disaster. Among the recognitions The Herald receives in 1970, nothing is more cognizant of our hopes than a request from Texas Education Agency to place our masthead among Texas newspapers giving coverage to modern education.

In a nation almost fanatic about "popularity", it is a lonely business to say what you see around you and project views only discussed today, but accepted tomorrow.

We look for continuity in events. Ultra-moderns like to reject what is or what has been for some Eutopia never to be. Traditionalists look back in comfort, disturbed by the present and uninterested in the future. Such views are a luxury modern civilization, if it is to function, cannot afford.

One can block out memory or by physical incapacity can forget. For the rest, it is continuity and recall. We forgive and repress, but an experience, if forgotten for every other reason, is remembered in its effect on the emotional side of personality and its everlasting influence with whomever it rests.

In our view, then, it is not an "either or" world because any decision, of which each makes thousands a day, is affected by prior experience, yours or somebody previous to you. Computers are not new. The brain is the biggest and the only independent computer. And its active storage is greater than any man-made computer. And its inactive or subconscious recall responds to unrecorded past.

It seems, then, we are able to learn from experience and to anticipate problems by encompassing them, though the job never will be done.

If we are "in touch" with people and even other planets, the possibility for disaster is minimized and the prospect for orderly development among men and universe is heightened.

Chance for error is great; the cataclysmic can and does occur, the unaccountable that makes man only man and the real reason for humility.

Science is being drubbed by events, many of which it set in motion during this century. At this moment, science is seeking perspective from religion, if for no other reason, for some additional justification and authority for what is now possible in the laboratory.

Science works with the physical, but now "sues for peace" with the metaphysical and the religious. Science and non-science begin to see "either or" is not working.

In Minor, Little League Baseball Playoffs Tonight

Cameron's summer baseball schedule ends tonight (Thursday) with play-offs in Minor and Little League. Regional play-offs start next week in Robinson for the Little League winner and in Gatesville for Pony League.

PONY LEAGUE

Cameron's Pony League teams are leading district play with the Maroons in first place and Blue Jays in second with one game against Rosebud left in their schedule.

The Maroons clinched first place honors with a 12 to 0 win over Rosebud at Cameron's Little League Park Saturday night. After a game with Thrall this week they will advance to Regional playoffs in Gatesville.

Coached by N. E. (Peanut) Barron and Bill Hornung, the Maroons have racked up an impressive win record: Thorndale 27-7, 12-1 and 26-6; Cameron Blue Jays 3-2 and 15-3; Rosebud 6-4, 4-0 and 12-0; Thrall 13-1, 8-2. Two losses were to the Cameron Blue Jays 2-4 and Rosebud 4-5.

The Blue Jays, coached by J. C. Komar and Thomas Harwell, have scored a 7 win, 4 loss record for the season and second place honors.

They defeated the Maroons 5-3; Rosebud 2-0 and 5-3; Thorndale 11-2, 12-10 and 17-1; and Thrall 6-4. Losses were to Thrall 8-5 and 4-2 and the Maroons 3-2 and 15-3.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Little League play-offs Monday sent the Indians to a final game against the Cardinals 8:30 p.m. tonight, (Thursday) to decide first place. The Indians defeated the Yankees 11-5 Monday in the first of a series to end a 3-way tie for league honors.

The Indians went into the 5th inning with a 7-0 lead over the Yankees. A score by Thomas Mikulec and a home run by Dennis Hollas that brought in Phillip McCall and Dale Mueck, gave the Indians an 11 run lead.

The Yankees connected in the 6th to put 5 runs on the board. Scoring for Yankees were Bobby Burton, Douglas Price, Joe Smitherman, John Schmidt and Steve Lewis.

Scoring for the Indians were Thomas Mikulec 2, Phillip McCall 3, Dale Mueck 2, Dennis Hollas 3, Donald Komar 1.

MINOR LEAGUE

In Minor League the Lions took a step toward a 3-way tie for first when a last inning, bases loaded, home run by Jimmy Horton gave them a 17 to 14 win over the Giants Friday night, only to lose their bid in a 1-8 loss make-up game with the Hustlers Monday.

The Lions loss left the Yankees and White Sox in a play-off for first place scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Thursday at Little League Ball Park. It will be the second meeting in one week for the two teams with the Yankees in front 11 to 3 last Thursday. The White Sox had defeated the Yankees 2 to 1 in an early season meeting.

In last weeks game Yankee pitcher Stephen Hollas and catcher Terry Cunningham scored 3 runs each, Allan Sapp and Terry Tindall each scored twice and Ken Chandler once.

Scores for the White Sox were by catcher Timmy Mitchan, 1st baseman Steven Vrazel and fielder Melvin Hundle.

ALMOST GOT AWAY - Carlton Cunningham 10, snagged this 10 pound catfish with a cane pole Monday, but the fish proved stronger than the pole, snapping it and flipping back into Mustang Creek. Carlton and his brother Terry, 9, couldn't let that big one get away and dove in with Terry retrieving it by the tail. The argument is which brother wins the fish. The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Cunningham Milam.

Technical Non-Thinker?

A plan to take vocational students to special training in Texas State Technical Institute or a nearby junior college has merit.

The main purpose of schools, public or private, is still to teach as well as one can the fundamentals of communications, mathematics and discipline, both mental and physical. And it is only in the high schools that specialization can take up half of the non-academic student's time from these basics.

Transportation to these technical centers, however, may present a problem, but perhaps no more than the possibility of a separate area vocational high school.

Isolation of vocational training in separate facilities would leave room for the academic and related courses which still are critical to good education. It would be a serious mistake to throw whole emphasis on the sciences and technologies when they are so easily obsolete with new developments.

By 1980, someone said recently, most of the labor force of this country will be going back to school periodically for retraining. By 2,000, no one can anticipate how fast change will be required in work skills. Constant class-work easily could be necessary just to keep a technical or professional job. Such updating is already critical in most fields.

It is good to bring students to vocational training in industry and commerce. It is better to build our own facilities if numbers warrant. It is best to keep the basics first, taking the individual student as far as he can go in communications and thinking skills before isolating him in a technical field.

A great technician may be a poor citizen and an isolated non-thinker.

WHAT OTHERS SAY . . .

Profitable Scavenging . . .

Recycling trash has received a great deal of publicity recently as one means of answering the mounting problem of disposing of solid wastes. Sen. Muskie of Maine has been holding hearings around the country on the problem. The hope is, of course, that there is enough reusable material in the waste so that profit can become a motive for developing recycling methods.

Muskie received such indications in testimony taken in San Francisco. A 22 year old college student told Muskie's subcommittee that he had paid for his tuition and housing this semester by collecting aluminum cans and selling them to Reynolds Aluminum for 10 cents a pound.

"It isn't really a lot of fun going around the dumps and separating aluminum cans from steel cans," the student said. Agreed. But it shows what a little enterprise on the waste problem can do.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

TIRES: DISPOSAL PROBLEM SOLVED

Rep. Lee Metcalf (Mont.) "... Each year some 100 million scrap tires -- about a million tons -- are discarded. Placed tread to tread, it is estimated that they could circle the earth twice at the equator. Unfortunately, they are not strung out, but are piled in junk or trash yards throughout the country. More disturbing yet, they are discarded along the road, in vacant lots, or burned creating a black plume of offensive pollutants.

"According to an article in Chemical and Engineering News, this disposal problem has now been solved. BUREAU OF MINES research personnel in cooperation with scientists and engineers from the FIRESTONE TIRE & RUBBER CO. have developed a disposal process which is essentially pollution free and also yields usable chemical and raw materials. . .

"I asked unanimous consent that the article be printed in the Record. . . (The condensed article follows)

Disposal of worn-out tires has been a problem for years. In this age of pollution control, the stench and black smoke from burning old tires, the standard method of disposal, is no longer acceptable. Firestone has an answer. By summer's end, the company will have in operation a pilot destructive distillation unit at its Akron, Ohio, manufacturing complex to solve the tire disposal problem WITHOUT "ANY SOLID WASTE, WATER, OR AIR POLLUTION."

The process will yield usable chemicals and raw materials for recycling into various manufacturing processes. If the pilot distillation plant proves commercially feasible, Firestone will set up 10 full-scale units across the country. Each plant will be capable of consuming 100,000 TONS of scrap tires a year. That's equivalent to about 80 million tires per year for the 10 units, or about two fifths of the tires produced last year.

In the process, shredded tires are fed on a continuous basis to a closed thermal reactor where the tires are broken down into gas, liquid, and char phases. About 45% of the tires become a solid residue, explains Joseph R. Laman, process developer and manager of environmental engineering for Firestone. "The residue can be used as FILLING MEDIUM IN TERTIARY SEWAGE TREATMENT, as a particulate in concrete by plant industry, or as a smokeless fuel, perhaps in the metallurgical field as a coke substitute," Mr. Laman says. (TERTIARY sewage treatment is called Third Stage or Advanced Treatment. It removes all, or almost all, of the contaminants. The key is filter beds, but they are costly. The old tire residue may answer that problem. Primary and Secondary sewage treatment are outdated. Modern contaminants create too many problems.)

In laboratory tests TOTALLY FUNDED by Firestone, at the U.S. Interior Department's Bureau of Mines facility in Pittsburgh, up to 140 gallons of oils and 1500 cu. ft. of gas were obtained per ton of scrap tires distilled.

The destructive distillation process could eventually absorb all the tires scrapped in the U.S. . . . Mr. Laman points out. "The disposal of scrap tires of all types is an ever-increasing national problem. . . Firestone intends to do its part to help abate air, water, and solid waste pollution. This new process is just one example of our efforts."

Texas Officials Gear For 18-Yr-Old Voter Sign-Up

By Vern Sanford

Eighteen-year-olds will be registered to vote in Texas this year unless the U.S. Supreme Court, in the meantime, invalidates the new federal voting rights act.

State officials plan to give federal authorities this assurance in reply to an inquiry of U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell asking all governors to report on steps they will take to comply with the new provision and other sections of the federal bill effective January 1.

Texas, reportedly, already is in compliance with the act, except for the lowered voting age. This state has no literacy test and "good character" requirements for election participation such as those outlawed by a bill signed into law by President Nixon on June 22.

When the Texas voter-registration period opens on October 1, 18-year-olds will be signed up if the expected court test is not settled by then. Local registration officials will be advised by state election authorities to register them pending a court decision.

According to election division director Randall Wood, the Secretary of State's office proposes to suggest that teen-age registrations be kept separately from those of voters 21 and above. This would simplify subsequent invalidation in the event the Supreme Court should rule the federal act unconstitutional after state registration already is under way.

Test case probably will be in Washington State. There the 18-year-old vote-referendum already is set for the November ballot. Washington officials are in a better political position to state that they will not comply with the federal law until their voters voice approval of the lowered age proposition.

Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. figures the federal act would add about 395,000 under-21 voters to Texas' registration rolls -- if it survives the court test.

OIL PRODUCTION RAISED

Oil production for August will be boosted 335,263 barrels a day, due largely to the high cost of shipping petroleum from foreign sources.

Railroad Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said the increase was brought about by high tanker rates as well as a demand for more cheap domestic oil. He noted that the Commission had disregarded recommendations of some to shut strip-ter or marginal wells, therefore the state has additional capacity.

Statewide allowable was pegged at 62.9 per cent of potential for August after a three months' decline. July allowable was 55.5 per cent. Maximum estimated production for August is 3,602,296 barrels a day, up from 3,296,033 in July.

COURTS SPEAK

Federal court suit has been filed against the City of Tyler by the U.S. government seeking to end school segregation by this fall.

Court of Criminal Appeals held that a driving while intoxicated conviction is invalid if the defendant was on private property at the time of arrest.

State Supreme Court refused to upset a lower court denial of damages to the widow of a man killed in an auto-train crash near Edna. Jury found negligence on the part of both the man and Southern Pacific Railroad employees.

High Court also held that a Potter County couple was not entitled to damages from a doctor because the woman could no longer have children after an operation.

Harris County district court granted an injunction against Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, prohibiting it from discharging industrial wastes into Sims Bayou in greater amounts than that permitted by the Water Quality Board. Court ordered a $20,000 fine, the largest civil penalty in Texas pollution case history.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES Wichita Falls school board is without authority to adopt a resolution or policy providing for recall elections of its members, says Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

Martin ruled in other recent opinions that:

--A county treasurer is the proper official to make delivery of county warrants to payees.

--County attorney who resigns as of a future date may not withdraw his resignation after it is duly accepted by the commissioners court even though the effective date has not arrived. However, until a successor is appointed, it is his duty to serve.

Martin said a Spring Branch real estate developer (Cypress Lake Gardens) gave assurance of voluntary compliance with directives to discontinue misleading advertising and sales practices.

DRAFT QUOTA DROPS

August draft call for Texas is 560. That's 257 less than the 817 in July. No man will be inducted with random sequence number higher than 195.

State quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in August is 1,490, down from 1,601 in July. Those called for these examinations will have random sequence numbers one to 215.

Deferred or exempt men may be forwarded for examinations if they are likely to lose deferred or exempt status within the next six months. No men with random sequences higher than 215 will be forwarded for examination until further notice. All volunteers at draft boards must be inducted ahead of the non-volunteers selected and ordered to report for draft by r.s.n. National call is for 10,000 men, all for the army.

BUDGET REQUESTS SOARING

Major state agency budget requests continued to prompt speculation of a huge tax need next year--perhaps as high as $700 million.

Board of Public Welfare finally officially approved a $2.1 billion biennial spending plan which is $347.6 million above present spending levels. Mental Health-Mental Retardation request of $314 million is $139.7 million above the current level, and colleges and universities want an increase of $258.9 million. Combined with public schools biennial operating proposals of $377.1 million, major agencies of education, mental hospitals -- retardation schools and welfare want more than $1 billion more than they now are getting.

Taking Along The Mrs.

Comedians have spun endless tales about the travelling businessman who takes along his secretary, claiming she is his wife. But for tax purposes, the situation may be just the opposite. The businessman may take along his wife and claim she is his secretary. His object, of course, would be to deduct her travelling expenses on his next income tax return.

Is this permissible? Are her expenses properly deductible? Consider this case:

A sales executive took his wife along to a series of conventions, where she kept him company and attended to the usual social amenities. However, she took no part in any business or convention activities.

Her husband tried afterward to deduct her expenses, but a court ruled that he could not. The court felt that, as far as business was concerned, he might just as well have left her home.

Even if a wife provides something more than mere companionship, there still may be insufficient grounds for her husband to take a tax deduction. Suppose she types up occasional notes for him. Or goes along to convention luncheons and dinners. Neither of these services would justify a deduction, according to a ruling of the Internal Revenue Service. As one court put it:

"Being 'helpful' is not enough; a wife's functions while travelling with her husband must be 'necessary' to the conduct of his business before a deduction will be allowed for her expenses."

By contrast, another wife did play a key role in her husband's work while they travelled in Europe, putting in as much time on the job as he did. Furthermore, their itinerary was chosen solely for business reasons, with no detours for "places of interest." In fact, she did no sightseeing at all.

Weighing these circumstances, a court concluded that her trip really was a business necessity and her expenses deductible. The court treated these expenses just like telephone bills or postage or any other of the costs of making a living.

Letters to the Editor

July 18, 1970

Dear Friend --

When in your valuable paper, you ring bells of yesteryear, like the fire horse of old that has been put out to graze, I jump the fence and rush to the scene of action, in today's parlance you turn me on.

But old age does have its compensations. We senior citizens have the exquisite pleasure of saying "I remember when" and some folks will even listen to us. There are not too many left to contradict however.

I remember in the 1890's, standing on the south side of the First National Bank and watching a "magic lantern" flash the results of the Grover Cleveland election on the opposite wall of Hefley's furniture store. Cleveland won as I remember and this was his third try, having won the first time and defeated the second.

John M. and J. D. Hefley carried furniture and also buggies and coffins. This was a very popular store for young men to work as clerks. I remember John O. Wolf, Percy Branch and the beloved Hubert Hefley having clerked there at times. One morning a popular citizen of Cameron came in with the startling announcement that he wanted to buy a coffin for himself. Mr. Jeff Hefley, showing not the least surprise or emotion took on this customer. Mr. Hefley seemed extremely interested in the sale, using all of his salesmanship, of which he had plenty. He told him the difference between the woods, the prices and just why he would suggest certain ones for the customer. Well the upshot was that Mr. Hefley seemed so anxious to make a sale, that the customer decided not to buy. Of course this was Mr. Hefley's strategy in steering the man from suicide.

And I well remember riding a donkey to the picnic at the city park where Hogg and Clarke were to hold their famous debate. I only remember Hogg for his great bulk but of course the world remembers him for his great brain.

I have heard many speeches from that city park pavilion. In latter years I well remember hearing a leading man's candidacy being completely demolished by our own Tom Henderson who was speaking for the other candidate. Mr. Henderson's man won and became Governor of Texas, a great Governor.

Your friend,
Don L. Avriett

Dear Sir:

I wonder if you would know of any information about a man that was named Oscar F. McAnally who used to publish and edit the newspaper at Cameron by the name of The Cameron Herald, for more than 20 years, before the year of 1908. (He may have died in 1908).

Mr. McAnally was a half brother, to my great-uncle, Dan McFarland, who at one time, issued his paper, titled the Bulletin at Buckholts in 1908. (He had to give his paper up, as he couldn't get help to run it.)

I would appreciate hearing from you, if your paper has any records or information on newspaper offices at Cameron, in years gone by, and any background on people running them. Thank you Sincerely,

Mrs. Raymond Loyd

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Me talking about fashions is about like a blacksmith's running a beauty shop or an economist running a bank, but the economic possibilities for farmers in the fluctuating lengths of women's skirts forces me to do it.

According to all the newspapers I've been reading lately, the fashion experts have decided that midi - skirts, not mini - skirts, will be in style this fall, and though the women are howling about it, come fall most of the minis are expected to be thrown away as the women fall in line in longer dresses.

Personally I have never understood how women can be so easily persuaded to throw away one wardrobe and buy another just because some Frenchman told them to, but I never argue with a fact, and it's a fact it happens. He announces about this time of the year what women will be wearing in the fall, and blamed if the word doesn't spread all over the world, from London to New York to Cameron, and 90 per cent of the women comply. This got me to thinking. There's a great possibility here for farmers.

As you know, women own a majority of the stocks and bonds in this country and control about 80 per cent of the spending, especially for groceries.

Where us farmers have been missing a bet is in not taking advantage of this feminine phenomenon.

We ought to change the shape of things we grow from year to year. If round potatoes for example are stylish this year, come out with long potatoes next year. White eggs are fashionable now? Come out with brown ones this fall. Women prefer red apples? Tell them Jackie Onassis and Elizabeth Taylor prefer green ones.

If you can get some women with the kind of knees I've seen into mini-skirts, getting them to switch to green apples and brown eggs would be a snap. Whatever a farmer grows, he ought to change the length or girth or color of it every year or so. All we'd have to do is get some Frenchman to promote the idea, and all it'd take to do that is some money. Money is always in high fashion with dress designers.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Disease Meeting Draws Interest

By J. D. Moore

County interest shown in plant

COUNTY INTEREST SHOWN IN PLANT DISEASE MEETING - A number of plant disease specimens were brought to the plant disease meeting held at the county agents office on July 16. Zinc deficiency, powdery mildew, honey dew, and other common problems were identified. A major problem in plant disease diagnosis is to determine if the condition is due to a physiological or pathological condition. For example, many plant leaves show a scorched condition from high temperatures such as we had in early July. Then too, black aphids (plant lice) appear the latter part of July and early August. These insects sting pecan leaves and deposit a chemical which eventually defoliates the pecan tree. Many think this is a disease condition.

Information is available in the form of publications, demonstrations, as well as commercial sources to help prevent these conditions. The county extension office has information available to help control most plant disease problems.

Many plants, such as Crepe Myrtle, Rose and Euonymus are showing signs of a fungal disease known as powdery mildew. This disease, as the name implies, gives the plant the appearance of being covered with a powdery substance such as talc.

Powdery mildew is difficult to control; however, if the homeowner will use the proper fungicide and make repeated applications, a successful job can be done. Fungicides which can be used are Karathane, Actidione PM, and Folpet. Sulfur may also be used. However, use sulfur with care or burn may occur if environmental conditions are not optimal for its use. Other fungicides such as Captan and Zineb are not effective for powdery mildew; thus many homeowners do not get the desired control when using them.

Repeated applications of the recommended material should be made at five to seven day intervals until a minimum of three have been made. Weather conditions may necessitate additional applications to keep the disease controlled. The secret to powdery mildew control is selection of the right material and its repeated use.

FIRE BLIGHT OF PEAR

Fire blight, a bacterial disease, is the most important limiting disease factor of Pear culture in Texas. It attacks as many as 75 other hosts, including quince, pyracantha, holly, cherry laurel, and other local plants.

Damage occurs as blossom blight, twig blight, resulting in the "dying back" of the limbs. This disease condition is mentioned here because resistant pear varieties should be considered in addition to a fungicide spray program.

3 Students Tapped For FB Seminar

Three high school students from Milam County will travel by chartered bus, Tuesday, July 28, to Baylor University in Waco where they will attend a Citizenship Seminar July 28-31 conducted by the Texas Farm Bureau.

They are Gordon Haisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Haisler of Buckholts, Texas; Patsy Hengst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hengst of Thorndale, Texas; and Jay Wise, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Wise of Milano, Texas.

The Milam County Farm Bureau is sponsoring the local students at the four-day training school.

Four outstanding, nationally-known lecturers will address the Waco training school, according to Robert Jungmann of Buckholts, president of the Milam County Farm Bureau.

They are Dr. Clifton L. Ganus, Jr., president of Harding College, Searcy, Ark.; Dr. C. L. Kay, vice president for public affairs of Lubbock Christian College, Lubbock; John Noble, Muncy, Pa., author of "I Was a Slave in Russia;" and W. Cleon Skousen, Salt Lake City, Utah, author, lawyer, educator, and former FBI agent.

Milam Landowners Are Boosting Conservation

Pollution, ecology and environment are big words in the news today. Edwin Fischer, who has been a director on the Central Texas S&WCD board for over 30 years, says that soil conservation was the popular phrase at one time.

He emphasized further that it is not the descriptive phrases or words but the end product that is important. These new words have created new public interest and awareness which will help boost the overall conservation effort in his district, he says.

Fischer has pride in the way the Milam County landowners who he represents, are doing the job on pollution control, ecology balance and environmental improvement. He points to the resource conservation achievements of his neighbors and friends as he refers to the objectives accomplished.

"Look at the grassed waterways, pastures and outlets on farms owned by Joe Mueck, Anton Moraw, or any of the Vrazel brothers. These are the on-farm filters that prevent silt, herbicides and insecticides from moving from the farm to the streams below," he said.

Improved pasture grasses can be seen on nearly every farm in the county. These have added cover and food for wildlife to the land besides their primary use as forage for livestock.

Grady Cockrill, Joe Glaser, Buster Griffin and many others in the Elm Creek Watershed have smoothed and silted critically eroded areas to prevent silt pollution in the main streams below.

The hundreds of ponds and lakes installed throughout the county have many uses and they all provide these things that improve the overall environment.

Yes, Fischer says, conservation was the big word 35 years ago, but who cares what they call it as long as we get the job done.

4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

By Fred Schuetze

LAST COLUMN

It seems hard to believe, but over two years have passed since I wrote the first 4-H Notes in Milam County. Now it is time, and it is with regret, that I must write my last column in Milam County.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the people of Milam County for their help, consideration, and friendship given me during my stay in the county.

A special thanks goes to the 4-H'ers, adult leaders and parents who have given me all the help and support that is needed for a strong 4-H program. You are some of the most outstanding people I have ever been associated with. Only you, the people of the county can build a strong program and I urge you to continue the good work.

Again thank you for your help and support and for making me and my family part of your county and way of life.

OUTDOORS IN TEXAS

BY VERN SANFORD

It won't be long before you'll be buying a new boat . . . that is if you haven't done so already.

Seems like nearly every family has at least one boat. It's "The Thing" nowadays. Double garages, or dual carports, now sport at least one car and one boat; sometimes two boats and one car, with the car—more often than not—left outside in the weather.

A statistical study made by the Boating Industry Association and the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers reveals that in 1969 the recreational boating industry increased its annual dollar volume in retail sales by an estimated 4.5 per cent. Peak now is $3,292,000,000. That's an aggregate total of nearly three and a third BILLION DOLLARS. Wow!

Included in these purchases are new and used boats, motors, accessories, safety equipment, fuel, insurance, docking, maintenance, launching, storage, repairs and club memberships.

Total number of boats in use in the United States jumped an additional 2.4 per cent or 206,000. This made the grand total 8,646,000 water pleasure craft. That's a lot of boats!

A million more people participated in recreational boating in 1969, with the total estimated at 43,230,000. This also represented a 2.4 per cent increase in those using the waterways more than once or twice during the year. It's obvious that boating is growing in appeal as more people seek leisure-time activities for the whole family.

Figures reveal also that sales of larger and more expensive boats and motors contributed to the general rise in dollar volume.

Like to know the breakdown on the boat population? Here it is by types of boats:

Inboard motorboats (including auxiliary-power sailboats) . . . 615,000.

Outboard boats . . . 5,101,000.

Sailboats without inboard power . . . 598,000.

Rowboats, canoes, dingies, prams, and other miscellaneous craft in use, many with outboard power . . . 2,332,000.

Number of outboard motors in use during 1969 reached 7,101,000 . . . topping seven million for the first time. Sales during the year reached an estimated 510,000 . . . a 2 per cent rise.

There was a marked increase in the size of the average outboard motor sold in 1969. In '68 the average outboard ran 31.5 hp, in '69 it was 33.1.

Motors of 45 hp and up commanded 34 per cent of the market.

Motors up to 6.9 hp dropped from 29 per cent to 28 per cent.

Motors 7 to 19.9 hp dropped from 21 to 19 per cent of sales.

Those 20 to 44.9 hp fell by the same figure . . . down from 21 per cent of sales to 19.

Naturally there was a preference for larger boats to go with the desire for motors of greater horsepower. This showed the average length up to 15.9 feet . . . the highest ever.

Estimated sales of outboard boats hit a 10-year high in 1969, reaching 301,000.

Sales of stern-drive boats continued to climb, hitting an estimated 235,000 units.

Marinas, boat yards and yacht clubs increased by 100 for a total of 5,900 such facilities on the American scene.

So, the popularity of boating goes up, up, and up . . . nationwide. As for Texas . . . our guess is that the percentages are even greater for the Lone Star State. Why shouldn't they be . . . with Texas' multiplicity of impoundments and virtually year-around boating weather?

TOWN and COUNTRY

A&M Grant To Research Lamb

COLLEGE STATION - A $23,650 research grant from the American Sheep Producers Council has been made to the Texas A&M University Agricultural Market Research and Development Center.

Purpose of the award is to support market testing of a completely new line of lamb products.

Dr. Robert Branson of the A&M Agricultural Economics and Sociology Department, center coordinator, said the tests will be made in Tyler and in Tulsa, Okla.

He said the grant contract is the 15th research project of the center since its beginning in February of last year. Grants received by the center now total $137,500.

Branson explained that the test will be supported by television and newspaper advertising, and the cooperation of major food chains in Tulsa and Tyler.

"In addition to test-marketing seven cuts of lamb, the ability of new products and the accompanying advertising to increase total lamb sales in the two cities will be measured," the economist pointed out.

Product sales will be measured by a series of retail food store audits. Consumer opinions of the new lamb products and advertising penetration will then be obtained by household surveys.

The research, Branson said, will be designed and conducted by the center in cooperation with Lou Havrilla, project director of the American Sheep Producers Council. Testing will take about five months and will start in late September or early October.

Monfort Packing Company in Colorado will supply the new lamb products.

Waterways Need Care

By T. H. McBay

Cooperators and landowners within the Little River-San Gabriel Soil & Water Conservation District should check their waterways for any needed maintenance. Outlet ends or any gully erosion in the waterway should be shaped, filled in sodded and fertilized.

Shaping of gullies in old waterways should be given special attention. The area should be compacted when possible. After shaping and packing the gullies, approximately six to eight inches of topsoil should be spread over the shaped area. Bermuda chunk sod or sprigs should be planted thick to enable a quick, dense cover on the area.

Fertilizer applied on the areas that have been shaped in waterways should be at least double the rate as compared to where no erosion has occurred. It is a good time to fertilize the entire waterway while spot shaping and sodding the erosive areas.

Weeds and other competitive plants need to be controlled, as a part of your waterway maintenance. Spraying or shredding competitive plants will allow the grass to become better established and furnish more cover to protect the waterway from erosion.

Assistance is available to help you with any waterway maintenance problem you may have. Contact your local Soil Conservation Service office in Bartlett.

ASCS

Most of the farmers who participated in the 1970 wheat, feed grain, and cotton programs in Milam County have now received their program payments, according to Ted Ford, Chairman of the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASCS) Committee.

Farmers earn program payments by diverting portions of their cropland to conservation uses, and complying with other program requirements. Diverting unneeded cropland helps maintain a balance between supply and demand, preserves the excess acres for future use when they are needed, provides a more orderly supply of farm products to consumers, and helps to assure equitable prices to farmers. This diverted acreage cannot be grazed during a six-month period, April 30 to October 1, and no crops can be harvested from the acreage during the entire program year.

Throughout the nation, over 3 million farmers are earning the farm program payments. Payments are being disbursed during a six-week period which began July 1. In past years, the payment period has extended over a three-month period from July through September.

Compressing the payment period into half the normal time required close cooperation between farmers and ASCS personnel. Mr. Ford said, adding: "Speaking for the entire farmer-elected committee, I am proud of the way everyone has cooperated to get the payments out early as we had promised farmers that we would do."

Because of budget restraints, partial payments could not be made this year during the spring sign-up period for the feed grain program. "When this decision was made, the Department told farmers that full payments would be made as early as possible. That commitment has been largely fulfilled," Mr. Ford said.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN gets local boost as County Judge O. B. Harden signs proclamation declaring July 19-25 Farm and Ranch Safety Week in Milam County. Robert Jungmann, president of the Milam County Farm Bureau, safety campaign sponsor, watches the signing. Jungmann said the accidental death rate for farm and ranch residents in Texas averaged over 250 per year during the decade of the sixties. He stressed the use of "accident protection" tools such as seat belts, fire extinguishers, SMV emblems, tractor roll-guards and crush resistant cabs.

Wholesale Prices Rise 2% In June

The advance brought the All Commodities Wholesale Price Index to 117.0 (1957-59=100), confirming the preliminary estimated reported previously. The June index was 3.4 percent above a year earlier.

Industrial commodities edged up 0.1 percent during the month. Processed foods and feeds rose 0.6 percent, and farm products were 0.3 percent higher.

Wholesale prices rose 0.2 percent in June, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported, the same rate of increase as in May.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the All Commodities Wholesale Price Index was up 0.1 percent in June. Industrial commodities rose 0.3 percent after adjustment but processed foods and feeds were down 0.7 percent. Farm products edged up 0.1 percent after allowance for the seasonal pattern.

The moderate advance for industrial commodities on a seasonally unadjusted basis in June reflected gains for five major commodity groups which slightly outweighed declines for six other groups.

The single most important influence on the industrials index was a boost of 7.8 percent in cigarette prices, the first change since June of last year.

Metals and metal products continued to move up but at a slower pace than in recent months as increases for steel mill products, iron and steel scrap and variety of fabricated metal products were partially offset by declines for nonferrous metals.

The rate of advance for machinery and equipment accelerated somewhat in June. Prices of metal commercial furniture were up substantially; passenger cars were higher; apparel, house furnishings and cotton products also rose.

There were increases for concrete products, concrete ingredients, and glass. Gasoline prices reversed their gains in May and distillates were down.

FERTILIZER VIA PIPELINE

More than a quarter million tons of fertilizer was sent to market via pipeline last year and experts are predicting the total will double this year. The idea was labeled as a "pipe" dream only a few years ago.

Your Weekly Horoscope

June 18 thru June 24

ARIES (March 21-April 19): There is a Gem about to come into your life, Ari. A Gem who will sparkle and shine and dazzle you with wit and intelligence. Can you bear up under the strain? After all, you are a fire sign and Gem is an air sign, and fire needs air, you know. But a mighty gust of air can put out a fire. Or make it burn brightly. Depending.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Interesting tid bit will be whispered into your ear before third day. Discount it completely. Source is unreliable. By fifth day you should get message you've been waiting for. Last two days are for dumb, dull duty. Do it without grumbling.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Unexpected meeting with new person in week ahead which should prove more than just a passing fancy. This new relationship could be with an Ari or an early Taurus. Be alert, and continue to circulate socially. Contact dear one on fourth day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't spend too much time dreaming of things which are to come, Moonsweetie. Concentrate on today. Energy should build on third day and continue until end of week. If you and Virg haven't as yet found each other, this just may be the week. Wheee.

LEO (July 23-August 22): Did events take an upward swing last week Leo? If so, you should be purring contentedly. If not, you are probably growling and snarling all over the place. Well, it's all up to you Leo darling. In the final shuffle, you are the dominate one who makes or breaks the bank.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): You are going to get a dose of the truth in the week ahead, Virg, which will be about as delightful as a tablespoon of castor oil. You would rather perhaps hear a hundred lies?

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): You tend to be most tolerant, Libra. Is it because you just don't care, or because you wish tolerance in return? Week ahead will be most interesting in this department. Olga sees the maximum stress test shaping up.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Absolutely wild week coming up, Scorp. Talk about wheels within wheels, and mirrors within mirrors . . . as far as Scorp is concerned it will be triangles within triangles. In short, a typical Scorp week.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): You are approaching a fork in the road, Saj. The decisions you make in the next week may alter your entire career. Knowing Saj's love for adventure, you'll no doubt take the road less traveled by.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Ding, dong. The bell tolls in week ahead, Cap. But please don't send someone out to seek for whom. You know darn well it tolls for thee. But by last of week Cap will be putting the pieces of the puzzle together and coming up with astute solution. Goody.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): All rested up from last week, Aquarius my love? Olga hopes so, for the one coming up is a heller. Full of demanding, depressing detail. However, one small note of joy: by end of week you will note a slight domestic detente. It's not much, true, but better than nothing.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): Pisces, Pisces, in the brook, there's a Taurus angling with a hook. And few know the angles like a Taurean. So watch out baby, the bait is loaded.

HOUSTON HOME -- Sam Houston built this story-and-a-half house at Huntsville in 1847 while he served in the U. S. Senate. The kitchen is housed in the log building on the right. And Houston built another log building in front of the house to serve as his law office.

Houston Home Contrasts Frontiersman's Legend

HUNTSVILLE

General Sam Houston, who more than any other man gave Texas its independence, is enshrined here on the grounds where he lived his last years.

The shrine is set among tall, old trees on the hills Houston loved.

Here he found his happiest days at the height of a tumultuous career in war and politics.

And it was to these hills and woods he came to find a final quiet before death.

A spring of cool, silver water breaks from beneath the trees near where Houston used to meet with visiting Indian friends and etches its course across the red earth to feed a small pond before it winds under a footbridge and loses itself in the folds of a hill.

The scene is a tranquil one, contrasting with the familiar image of Houston as a bold figure who carved a legend in war and politics.

But out of the shadows cast by the oaks and the sycamores and from the timeless music made by the tiny spring emerges Sam Houston, the gentle husband and father as well as the sturdy frontiersman.

Down one of the grassy slopes is the main building of the shrine, the red brick Sam Houston Museum with four magnificent white columns in front.

Two of Houston's homes are nearby.

Across a footbridge and surrounded by a white picket fence, just as it was when Houston lived, is the house he built in 1847.

The white, story-and-a-half structure has six rooms divided by an open breezeway, or "dog run," and furnished with pieces from the Houston era.

Two of the eight Houston children were born here, and Houston worked in the log law office nearby.

Writing to a friend about the home, Houston described it as a "bang up place."

Beyond this house is another Houston home, the one in which 117 years ago he died.

The house, built in 1858 to resemble a steamboat, was brought from across town to the site of the shrine.

Houston retired to the steamboat house in 1861 after a secession - bent legislature removed him from the governor's office when he refused to swear allegiance to the Confederacy.

"I love Texas too well to bring strife and bloodshed upon her," declared the old general.

Brokenhearted, the man who had led Texas' fight for independence and defeated Mexican Dictator-General Santa Anna at San Jacinto took his wife, Margaret, back to Huntsville. He died two years later when a cold turned into pneumonia.

In his long and often stormy career Houston was representative and governor of Tennessee, commander of the tiny Army of the Republic of Texas, president of the republic, senator from Texas and twice governor of the young state.

Once he had dreamed of becoming president of the United States, as was his friend and mentor, Andrew Jackson.

All of these colorful episodes in Houston's life are depicted at the shrine.

The story begins at the museum with a mosaic of the Houston family coat of arms set in the floor of the central room.

Towering over the room is the commanding figure of General Houston. He is pictured standing in the halls of Congress and lying beneath an oak after he was wounded in the leg at the Battle of San Jacinto.

In case hangs the leopard skin vest he wore to Congress in 1846, shocking some of the more proper residents of Washington.

Other displays speak of the days he spent with the Cherokee Indians who took the giant man from Tennessee into their tribe.

Houston the tender husband is revealed in the letters he sent his young wife, who wrote poetry to him.

"My dear Margaret," began the tough, old campaigner in one letter, "I have little news but my love, I am so unhappy while separated from you that I feel myself most happy when writing to you."

Visitors to the shrine may be shown the museum and introduced to General Houston by a woman who has come to know him well.

Mrs. Grace Longino has been its director since 1953 when annual attendance was only about 18,000. Under her enthusiastic direction the shrine today attracts 50,000 visitors a year.

Mrs. Longino, her staff, and the citizens of Huntsville each spring celebrate the birthday of Margaret Houston. They dress in costumes of the Houston period and host thousands of visitors to the shrine.

Visitors are escorted over the grounds and told about Houston; they are shown the home where the two children were born, and they are shown the steamboat house where he died with twofold words: "Margaret, . . . Texas."

ROCKDALE, TEXAS

New fashion excitement for Fall is adding lustre to one of the best-known names in women's wear. Davidow, famed for years for suits and coats of superb quality, is introducing a new haute couture collection in fine stores throughout the country. Created by a talented new designer, Umberto Manzo, the collection is called "Couture 71".

The sumptuous wrap-around coat, shown here, is typical of the new Fall styles in Davidow's trend-setting collection. Designed to help you wrap up more comfort and compliments on the Fall fashion scene, this Umberto Manzo original is lavishly collared, cuffed and hemlined with Norwegian Blue Fox. The fabric is fine-quality English wool with dramatic diagonal striping, and the fashion features include a deep-V collar and self-belt. The luxurious wrap comes in misses sizes in a handsome taupe/cream coloring. You'll find the new Couture 71 collection by Davidow at the top fashion stores in this area.

August Draft Call Is 560

The August draft call for Texas is 560, and no man will be selected and ordered for induction with a random sequence number higher than 195, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Friday.

The August quota is down from 817 in July, which is being filled with men having random sequence numbers no higher than 195.

The state quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in August is 1,490, down from 1,601 in July. Men sent for these examinations will be limited to those with random sequence numbers 1 through 215.

Deferred or exempt men, such as teachers, college students, and vocational or trade school students with random sequence numbers 1 through 215 may be forwarded for these examinations if they are likely to lose their deferred or exempt status during the next six months, Colonel Schwartz said.

No men with random sequence numbers above 215 will be forwarded for examination until further notice. No authority has been received to examine men born in 1951, whose random sequence numbers were established by the drawing in Washington July 1.

All volunteers at the draft boards must be inducted ahead of the non-volunteers selected and ordered to report for induction by random sequence number.

The Texas induction quota of 560 for August is the state's share of a national call for 10,000 men, all for the army.

Bartlett To Host BEC Membership

Members of the Bartlett Electric Cooperative, Inc. will hold their annual membership meeting Tuesday, July 28, at 8 p.m. at the high school football field in Bartlett.

Registration of members will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Bro. Larry Sullivan, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Bartlett, will give the invocation. Dr. Ralph Clearman, president of the Bartlett Chamber of Commerce, will bring the welcome address.

The business session will be conducted by President Joe Zajicek, Secretary James Terry and Manager H. M. Keith. Reports of the officers, directors, committees and manager will be made and the election of three directors will be held. The Nominating Committee has selected the following nominees for directors to serve for three year terms to be elected at this meeting: Joe Zajicek, Rogers; Albert Steglich, Holland; and Roland Fuller, Killeen. Additional nominations for directors may be made at the meeting.

John Barnes, Assistant State Director, Farm & Home Administration, Temple, will speak on housing and home building.

Children of school age whose parents are members of the Bartlett Electric Cooperative, Inc. may register for cash prizes. Fifty cash prizes will be drawn for 50 lucky boys and girls.

A drawing for prizes for the members will also be held at the close of the meeting. The Board of Directors has set the following rules to govern the drawing of prizes:

1. Only those voting members who are present in person and have registered for the meeting shall be eligible to receive a prize.
2. Only those who actually have a membership fee paid and are actually receiving electric service can receive a prize.
3. Only husband and wife or a partner of a joint account may register and vote. The cooperative office will close at noon on the 28th to prepare for the meeting. All members are urged to attend this meeting and to bring their family and friends. The public is cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Census Cry Depends On Comparison

The Texas Lumberman's Association, who's prosperity is determined by the construction market, says the gloom over 1970 census figures depends on your point of comparison.

The LAT says the census in Texas is actually impressive.

When the Lumbermen's Association was formed 84 years ago and John Ireland was Governor of Texas (Grover Cleveland was in the White House), San Antonio was the largest Texas city with a population of 30,000. Dallas ranked second with a little over 27,000 residents; Galveston boasted 24,500; Houston, 23,137; Fort Worth 22,000; Waco 17,000 and Austin was just shy of 12,000. At that time, Amarillo was a little hamlet of 400 people and Lubbock didn't even exist. Port Arthur was known as Aurora which vanished in 1887. Beaumont was the big city in the southeast part of the State. It had 3,000 people and eight sawmills and a shingle mill.

EGG INDUSTRY SHIFTS

The number of farms selling eggs decreased sharply, contractual arrangements gained importance and production shifted to the South and West during the 1950's and 60's, reports the USDA Economic Research Service.

New Vocational Course To Offer Girls High School - Work - Training

Yoe High School will offer a new course in vocational home-making this fall that will combine school, vocational training and income for high school age girls.

Mrs. Dorothy Foster, teacher-coordinator for the program, said they hoped it would be a help to employer and employee. "Students will go to class a half day and be available for work 3 hours a day or 15 hours per week," Mrs. Foster said.

She said educators have become increasingly concerned about students who can look forward to little more than low-paying jobs of an unskilled nature when they leave high school.

The Vocational Act of 1963 and amendments of 1968 emphasize that all high school students should receive some kind of vocational training. Home Economics is assuming some responsibility for this training by adding gainful employment courses to the high school curriculum. The courses are designed to meet the needs of students who, for a variety of reasons, do not plan to continue their education after graduation from high school, or who have a particular interest in an occupation requiring home-economics knowledge and skills.

"It is also hoped that the courses will give students who have lost interest in high school a reason for remaining in school until they graduate," Mrs. Foster said.

Mrs. Foster pointed out that the various subject matter areas of home economics are relevant to a variety of occupations. "There is a need in many occupations for employees who have had some training, but not necessarily a college degree or even college credit," she added.

During the past few years, an increasing number of people: Eat outside the home; Stay in nursing homes; Leave their children with baby sitters or care centers; Desire alterations or repairs on their clothing; Want help with decorating their homes;

Travel and require clean, pleasant surroundings at night;

"With the expanded demand for services, the need for food service, employees, dietitian aides, child care aides, clothing assistants, home furnishings aides, housekeeping management assistants is apparent," Mrs. Foster said. "These are examples of only a few of the occupations to which home economics can make a contribution in terms of trained personnel."

She emphasized that the purpose of the wage earning courses is not only to give high school students a job skill, but also to help them advance more rapidly and perform more efficiently.

The Cooperative Education Program combines classroom instruction with three hours per day on-the-job training. The pre-employment laboratory education program provides technical instruction and practical experience in the classroom for two consecutive hours daily.

Examples of approved occupations include: bridal consultant, child care aide, companion to elderly, clothing assistant, dietitian aide, fabric coordinator, floral designer, food caterer, food service employee, house-keeping management assistant, tester of foods, or cook.

Mrs. Foster said that any business or individual interested in the program as an employer or employee-student may contact her at 697-3641 between the hours of 9 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. each day.

The Cameron Herald

What have you done lately that makes you feel proud?

Maybe it was standing up and singing the National Anthem at the last ball game you attended.

Or maybe you hung an eagle over your fireplace.

Or put the flag out on the 4th. Fine.

Now why don't you do something to really help your country. Like buying a U.S. Savings Bond.

You can get them at any bank, or sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

When you buy a Bond you can feel proud that you've helped your country and, at the same time, helped yourself.

Maybe it's time you bought a Bond.

And felt proud.

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

To most of us the only time we consciously think about the water we drink is on those hot summer days during work or play when a good, cool drink of water is really a thirst-quencher, and then we think only of the pleasure we receive from that drink and not of the rules and regulations and hard work that goes into making our public water supply safe and sanitary.

But that job is a very important public health service of the Texas State Department of Health.

The Sanitary Engineering Division of the State Health Department has been involved ever since 1915 in efforts to preserve the purity of state and community water supplies. The Water Supply unit of that division, operating under state law, has so thoroughly blanketed the field of water sanitation with State Health Department engineers that water-borne diseases from public drinking water supplies have virtually disappeared.

Drinking water supplies serving communities, common carriers, food processing plants, dairies, and the water supply of public parks are subjected to penetrating inspection.

Plans for new systems are reviewed for health hazards. Water utility operators are certified as competent after being examined. Field inspectors from the State Health Department work to bring all public water supplies into strict compliance with the rules of the State Board of Health, and of good sanitary practices.

Today there are some 450 public water supplies across the state that have been approved by the State Health Department and certified as safe and sanitary.

One of the biggest volumes of work done in this water supply service is the bacteriological and chemical analysis of water samples.

There are 25 Health Department laboratories across the state in addition to the state lab at Austin that handle the tremendous volume of samples sent in for bacteriological analysis. Some 12,000 to 18,000 samples per month are processed and records kept on each sample.

The Health Department Laboratory in Austin also conducts a chemical analysis of public water supplies. This service, because of its complexity and volume, is not available to private individuals.

The chemical analysis determines dangerous, or even undesirable, concentrations of solids and minerals, including chloride, fluoride, sulfates, iron, manganese, and many others. The PH, the acid or base quality of water, is also determined. Some 12,000 to 15,000 samples are tested chemically every year by State Department of Health laboratories.

More Meat Per Hour

One hour's work in a factory buys more food today than it did 20 and 30 years ago. Today's pay for an hour of factory work will buy 2.6 pounds of round steak in contrast to 1.5 pounds 20 years ago and 1.8 pounds 30 years ago. Today's work hour also buys 3.7 pounds of bacon compared with 1.7 pounds both 20 and 30 years ago.

Proposed Amendment Analyzed

State Rep. Dan Kubiak this week issued an analysis of proposed Amendment 5 which if authorized would permit counties to issue road and waterway bonds in any amount not to exceed one-fourth of the assessed valuation of the real property in the county.

Kubiak listed arguments pro and con as:
For Amendment 5-
1. Construction and maintenance of sufficient roads and turnpikes to meet the traffic needs of rapidly growing Texas have been hampered by the constitutional debt limit and the requirements of a two-thirds vote of the qualified electors. The proposed Amendment No. 5 would alleviate this situation.

2. The proposed Amendment's requirement that bonds may be issued only on approval of a majority vote provides adequate assurance that tax burdens cannot be increased without the full knowledge and majority consent of the individuals to be affected.

At the same time, the amendment modifies present requirements enabling a minority of only one-third of the voters to override wishes of the majority.
Against Amendment 5-
1. The majority vote requirement of the proposed amendment would make it too easy for a bond election to pass. When bond elections are called with the timing selected to assure turnout of only those in favor of an issue, a majority of the voters could, in fact, be disenfranchised.
2. The liberalized debt limit in the proposed amendment is much broader than it appears, and the reduction in the number of voters required for approval of the extended indebtedness could open the door to the squandering of taxpayers' money.

FRANCHISE
Councilmen also heard complaint from Tommy Bass, owner of "the Taxi Co.," who asked that non-franchised operators of taxis in Cameron be stopped from hauling passengers.
Police officials said it requires proof that an unfranchised operator is taking fares for hauling passengers and such proof is difficult to establish. Shearin said warnings have been issued. Street Supt. Hale advised councilmen to close city dump grounds on weekends, starting on an August 1 date recommended by Mayor Perrin.

Hale said it was costing about $25 a weekend to keep the dump open for people wishing to haul their own trash and only a few have brought theirs out.
Council also authorized City Sec. Buddy Fuller to negotiate with officials of Milam County on a new fire control contract in which the Cameron Fire Dept. dispatches certain equipment for reimbursement during a 12-month period.

And Council authorized a routine transfer of funds which would balance a few depleted accounts and approved monthly bills.

Residents Want N. Austin Added To Paving Plan

Petition Seeking 6 Blocks

A petition for six more blocks of paving on North Austin went before City Councilmen Tuesday while street paving projects drew major interest in a semi-monthly Council meeting.

Herman Hanel, Cameron businessman, presented a petition asking paving along North Austin from 16th Street to 22nd Street.

Mayor E. A. Perrin and councilmen asked Hanel, who is voluntarily seeking signatures on the paving petition, to get all, if possible, local residents along the street to sign the petition.

The street department's paving program showed 22nd Street itself, from Karnes to the city limits west, has been paved.

A base for paving on E. 16th St. and North Washington from 12th to 22nd Street has been put down by city workmen, and Street Supt. Hale said hot mix paving on these streets was scheduled.

Councilmen told Hanel it would be next year before any work could be done on North Austin because of the schedule of paving work well underway this year.

SIGNATURES URGED

But Mayor Perrin encouraged the signing of the petition so that paving plans can be made.

Mayor Perrin also noted the need to put in about 300 feet of plastic or used piping along a West Fourth St. residence frontage to carry drainage out of a yard, Council approved.

Mayor pro tem Starrett Hickman expressed concern over high speed police chases outside the city limits, following "radicals" at "extreme" speeds.

Police Chief John Shearin said Cameron officers have followed three vehicles outside the city limits in the past year, the most recent pursuing a man to the Marlow area.

Chief Shearin said there was a time when people knew Cameron police would not pursue and that an officer sometime must pursue a speeding car. He said it was a matter of judgment, which he felt his staff demonstrated.

Mayor Perrin and City Atty. Ed Magre both said officer discretion in such cases is necessary, but Mayor Perrin urged police to note license plates, where possible, and pick up any local suspects later, rather than pursue at high speeds.

Milam Chili Wins Pasadena Cheers

A chili recipe from Matchless Milam County dubbed '1845 Z-X' will test the taste buds of chili eaters extraordinary at a World Championship chili cook-off this fall.

Dick Slocumb, guardian of the top secret recipe of a pioneer Milam County family, will represent the Pasadena Pod of the Ship Channel Chapter of the Chili Appreciation Society International at the annual Republic of Texas chilympiad in San Marcos' Aqua Springs September 18-19.

Slocumb, chairman of the board of regents of San Jacinto College and a Cameron area native, was selected in Pasadena Saturday at a $75-a-bowl chili breakfast.

Nat Henderson of the Austin American reported the breakfast, which attracted "some of the most distinguished chili heads in the Houston Ship Channel area" was held at the Pasadena Club under the cover of both darkness and air pollution at 5 a.m., because Slocumb insisted on the early hour to insure that his '1845-Z-X' chili recipe remained secret.

Pasadena Chili Society members tempers flared Saturday when rumor circulated that the 1845 Z-X chili didn't actually date back to the days of the Republic of Texas.

Tex Adams, publisher of the Pasadena News Citizen and Grand Podentate of the Pasadena Pod, said "We suspect some of the Cucamonga crowd from California and Arizona are spreading vicious tales because the Pasadena Pod refused to eat green chili cooked by C. V. Wood at Terlingua last fall."

Adams was referring to the Cucamonga, California, Chapter of the Chili Appreciation Society International and Arizona millionaire C. V. Wood, a chili enthusiast who is also credited with buying the London Bridge "as a centerpiece for a real estate development at Lake Havasu City, Arizona."

Adams said Wood's chili contained chicken, pork chops and green peppers and "was without even the slightest red coloring of normal chili. It was so green you'd think he bought it at Shannon Airport in Ireland on the way back with the London Bridge."

But despite color, Carroll Shelby, famed racing driver and chief chili pepper of the California Cucamonga chapter, voted for the Arizona's recipe.

But Pasadena says California and Arizona won't have a chance this year against the time-tested Milam County chili.

Slocumb, 46 and a general insurance man in Pasadena for the last 28 years, credits his grandfather Samuel J. Slocumb with first planting the secret chili ingredient in a patch on his Milam County river-bottom farm in 1845. His descendants are said to guard the special patch and the recipe is handed down to the oldest son in each generation.

Auction To Benefit W-L Park

Over $1,300 in merchandise will be auctioned by Noon Lions Club on the courthouse lawn Saturday July 25, to benefit a renovation of Wilson-Ledbetter Park.

A list of 78 items that will interest sportsmen, gardeners, farmer, homemaker or the fashion-minded, will be on display for the 8 a.m. to 12 noon auction.

Chairman for the auction is George Jones with co-chairman Gene Smitherman and committeemen Ed Laywell and Delbert Burlison. Jones said the Lions Club will be in full force Saturday to handle bidding.

A complete list of items to be auctioned appears on page 11 of The Herald. Bids may be made in person or called in to 697-6633 or 697-6634.

Noon Lions Club pledged $1,000 a year to the City of Cameron for beautification work at the sprawling Wilson-Ledbetter Park. It is the second effort to make the park more attractive for community use. Boy Scout Troop 752 assisted by the Fleur de Lis Garden Club refurbished the Boy Scout House and surrounding grounds last spring.

The park, established in the 1930s, has a lake, five permanent buildings and swimming pool in addition to picnic and rodeo area.

One Among 'Dozen' ... Herald Essay Published

A Herald editorial is included in a limited edition of 12 editorials judged the "Golden Dozen" in 1970 competition by the International Conference of Weekly Newspaper Editors.

It is one of a series of honors and developments citing 1970 Herald accomplishment in news commentary, technology and publishing.

Richard Taylor, editor of the Kennett News and Advertiser, Kennett Square, Penn., received the "Golden Quill Award" from among the 12 finalists during a dinner sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi last week in St. Louis.

Inclusion of The Herald editorial was advised by telephone earlier in the month by Howard Rusk Long, secretary-treasurer of ICWNE, Luecke's editorials and columns this spring were cited by a "Golden Pencil Award", one of three given in Texas.

Editor-publisher Frank M. Luecke is author of the editorial included in the anthology published by ICWNE. Luecke's editorials and columns this spring were cited by a "Golden Pencil Award", one of three given in Texas.

A feature by Luecke on the impact of computer - offset journalism is appearing this month in the University of Missouri School of Journalism's Alumni News.

The Herald is converting all of its front-office accounting, subscription and mailing procedures to one computer while installing phototype composition, doubling tape-driven capacity of The Herald's typesetting department.

Converted to semi-weekly last November and to offset in January, 1970, The Herald is one of few non-dailies in the country computerizing through-out business, mailing and composition departments.

Luecke said it is possible "we will be the only computerized newspaper outside daily journalism."

Winners in the "Golden Quill" editorial competition came from eight states and Canada. The Herald was the only "Golden Dozen" finalist from the Southwest.

IF GOOD ENOUGH

"If we are good enough," Luecke said, "we hope to raise non-metro journalism to 21st Century technical possibility and to approach classic perspective in news and commentary. These developments may be a start."

Conversion to photo-typesetting, a system of setting reading type and small heads, is scheduled in early August. Equipment already has arrived.

Complete conversion to computer on the business and circulation sides is anticipated by August 1. The process has been underway since May.

Luecke is chairman of the public notice committee of National Newspaper Assoc. and was chairman of the resolutions committee during the 1970 convention of Texas Press Assoc. in Houston. He is a graduate of the University of Missouri, B. J. '53.

In its 111th year, the semi-weekly Herald is one of the half-dozen oldest newspapers in Texas.

News editor is Mrs. Bess Jeter, News and feature writers are Mrs. Frank Luecke and Lloyd Albertson. Mrs. Billie Seaton is in charge of tape production.

111 With F.M.L.

We disturb people by rejecting "either or" journalism in an "either or" world.

As things now move, the world one day in the future may go to an encompassing view when "either or" may mean disaster.

Among the recognitions The Herald receives in 1970, nothing is more cognizant of our hopes than a request from Texas Education Agency to place our masthead among Texas newspapers giving coverage to modern education.

In a nation almost fanatic about "popularity", it is a lonely business to say what you see around you and project views only discussed today, but accepted tomorrow.

We look for continuity in events, Ultra - moderns like to reject what is or what has been for some Eutopia never to be. Traditionalists look back in comfort, disturbed by the present and uninterested in the future.

Such views are a luxury modern civilization, if it is to function, cannot afford.

One can block out memory or by physical incapacity can forget. For the rest, it is continuity and recall. We forgive and repress, but an experience, if forgotten for every other reason, is remembered in its effect on the emotional side of personality and its everlasting influence with whomever it rests.

In our view, then, it is not an "either or" world because any decision, of which each makes thousands a day, is affected by prior experience, yours or somebody previous to you.

Computers are not new. The brain is the biggest and the only

In last weeks game Yankee pitcher Stephen Hollas and catcher Terry Cunningham scored 3 runs each, Allan Sapp and Terry Tindall each scored twice and Ken Chandler once.

Scores for the White Sox were by catcher Timmy Mitchan, 1st baseman Steven Vrazel and fielder Melvin Hundle.

Technical Non-Thinker?

A plan to take vocational students to special training in Texas State Technical Institute or a nearby junior college has merit.

The main purpose of schools, public or private, is still to teach as well as one can the fundamentals of communications, mathematics and discipline, both mental and physical. And it is only in the high schools that specialization can take up half of the non-academic student's time from these basics.

Transportation to these technical centers, however, may present a problem, but perhaps no more than the possibility of a separate area vocational high school.

Isolation of vocational training in separate facilities would leave room for the academic and related courses which still are critical to good education. It would be a serious mistake to throw whole emphasis on the sciences and technologies when they are so easily obsolete with new developments.

By 1980, someone said recently, most of the labor force of this country will be going back to school periodically for retraining. By 2,000, no one can anticipate how fast change will be required in work skills. Constant class-work easily could be necessary just to keep a technical or professional job. Such updating is already critical in most fields.

It is good to bring students to vocational training in industry and commerce. It is better to build our own facilities if numbers warrant. It is best to keep the basics first, taking the individual student as far as he can go in communications and thinking skills before isolating him in a technical field.

A great technician may be a poor citizen and an isolated non-thinker.

WHAT OTHERS SAY . . .

Profitable Scavenging . . .

Recycling trash has received a great deal of publicity recently as one means of answering the mounting problem of disposing of solid wastes. Sen. Muskie of Maine has been holding hearings around the country on the problem. The hope is, of course, that there is enough reusable material in the waste so that profit can become a motive for developing recycling methods.

Muskie received such indications in testimony taken in San Francisco. A 22 year old college student told Muskie's subcommittee that he had paid for his tuition and housing this semester by collecting aluminum cans and selling them to Reynolds Aluminum for 10 cents a pound.

"It isn't really a lot of fun going around the dumps and separating aluminum cans from steel cans," the student said. Agreed. But it shows what a little enterprise on the waste problem can do.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

TIRES: DISPOSAL PROBLEM SOLVED

Rep. Lee Metcalf (Mont.) . . . Each year some 100 million scrap tires -- about a million tons -- are discarded. Placed tread to tread, it is estimated that they could circle the earth twice at the equator. Unfortunately, they are not strung out, but are piled in junk or trash yards throughout the country. More disturbing yet, they are discarded along the road, in vacant lots, or burned creating a black plume of offensive pollutants.

"According to an article in . . . Chemical and Engineering News, this disposal problem has now been solved. BUREAU of MINES research personnel in cooperation with scientists and engineers from the FIRESTONE TIRE & RUBBER CO. have developed a disposal process which is essentially pollution free and also yields usable chemical and raw materials. . . .

"I asked unanimous consent that the article be printed in the Record. . . ." (The condensed article follows)

Disposal of worn-out tires has been a problem for years. In this age of pollution control, the stench and black smoke from burning old tires, the standard method of disposal, is no longer acceptable. Firestone has an answer. By summer's end, the company will have in operation a pilot destructive distillation unit at its Akron, Ohio, manufacturing complex to solve the tire disposal problem WITHOUT "ANY SOLID WASTE, WATER, OR AIR POLLUTION."

The process will yield usable chemicals and raw materials for recycling into various manufacturing processes. If the pilot distillation plant proves commercially feasible, Firestone will set up 10 full-scale units across the country. Each plant will be capable of consuming 100,000 TONS of scrap tires a year. That's equivalent to about 80 million tires per year for the 10 units, or about two fifths of the tires produced last year.

In the process, shredded tires are fed on a continuous basis to a closed thermal reactor where the tires are broken down into gas, liquid, and char phases. About 45% of the tires become a solid residue, explains Joseph R. Laman, process developer and manager of environmental engineering for Firestone. "The residue can be used as FILLING MEDIUM IN TERTIARY SEWAGE TREATMENT, as a particulate in concrete by plant industry, or as a smokeless fuel, perhaps in the metallurgical field as a coke substitute," Mr. Laman says. (TERTIARY sewage treatment is called Third Stage or Advanced Treatment. It removes all, or almost all, of the contaminants. The key is filter beds, but they are costly. The old tire residue may answer that problem. Primary and Secondary sewage treatment are outdated. Modern contaminants create too many problems.)

In laboratory tests TOTALLY FUNDED by Firestone, at the U.S. Interior Department's Bureau of Mines facility in Pittsburgh, up to 140 gallons of oils and 1500 cu. ft. of gas were obtained per ton of scrap tires distilled.

The destructive distillation process could eventually absorb all the tires scrapped in the U.S. . . . Mr. Laman points out. "The disposal of scrap tires of all types is an ever-increasing national problem. . . . Firestone intends to do its part to help abate, air, water, and solid waste pollution. This new process is just one example of our efforts."

Texas Officials Gear For 18-Yr-Old Voter Sign-Up

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN

Eighteen-year-olds will be registered to vote in Texas this year unless the U.S. Supreme Court, in the meantime, invalidates the new federal voting rights act.

State officials plan to give federal authorities this assurance in reply to an inquiry of U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell asking all governors to report on steps they will take to comply with the new provision and other sections of the federal bill effective January 1.

Texas, reportedly, already is in compliance with the act, except for the lowered voting age. This state has no literacy test and "good character" requirements for election participation such as those outlawed by a bill signed into law by President Nixon on June 22.

When the Texas voter-registration period opens on October 1, 18-year-olds will be signed up if the expected court test is not settled by then. Local registration officials will be advised by state election authorities to register them pending a court decision.

According to election division director Randall Wood, the Secretary of State's office proposes to suggest that teen-age registrations be kept separately from those of voters 21 and above. This would simplify subsequent invalidation in the event the Supreme Court should rule the federal act unconstitutional after state registration already is under way.

Test case probably will be in Washington State. There the 18-year-old vote-referendum already is set for the November ballot. Washington officials are in a better political position to state that they will not comply with the federal law until their voters voice approval of the lowered age proposition.

Secretary of State Martin Dies Jr. figures the federal act would add about 395,000 under-21 voters to Texas' registration rolls -- if it survives the court test.

OIL PRODUCTION RAISED

Oil production for August will be boosted 335,263 barrels a day, due largely to the high cost of shipping petroleum from foreign sources.

Railroad Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said the increase was brought about by high tanker rates as well as a demand for more cheap domestic oil. He noted that the Commission had disregarded recommendations of some to shut strip-ter or marginal wells, therefore the state has additional capacity.

Statewide allowable was pegged at 62.9 per cent of potential for August after a three months' decline. July allowable was 55.5 per cent. Maximum estimated production for August is 3,602,296 barrels a day, up from 3,267,033 in July.

COURTS SPEAK

Federal court suit has been filed against the City of Tyler by the U.S. government seeking to end school segregation by this fall.

Court of Criminal Appeals held that a driving while intoxicated conviction is invalid if the defendant was on private property at the time of arrest.

State Supreme Court refused to upset a lower court denial of damages to the widow of a man killed in an auto-train crash near Edna. Jury found negligence on the part of both the man and Southern Pacific Railroad employees.

High Court also held that a Potter County couple was not entitled to damages from a doctor because the woman could no longer have children after an operation.

Harris County district court granted an injunction against Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, prohibiting it from discharging industrial wastes into Sims Bayou in greater amounts than that permitted by the Water Quality Board. Court ordered a $20,000 fine, the largest civil penalty in Texas pollution case history.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

Wichita Falls school board is without authority to adopt a resolution or policy providing for recall elections of its members, says Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin.

Martin ruled in other recent opinions that:

--A county treasurer is the proper official to make delivery of county warrants to payees.

--County attorney who resigns as of a future date may not withdraw his resignation after it is duly accepted by the commissioners court even though the effective date has not arrived. However, until a successor is appointed, it is his duty to serve.

Martin said a Spring Branch real estate developer (Cypress Lake Gardens) gave assurance of voluntary compliance with directives to discontinue misleading advertising and sales practices.

DRAFT QUOTA DROPS

August draft call for Texas is 560. That's 257 less than the 817 in July. No man will be inducted with random sequence number higher than 195.

State quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in August is 1,490, down from 1,601 in July. Those called for these examinations will have random sequence numbers one to 215.

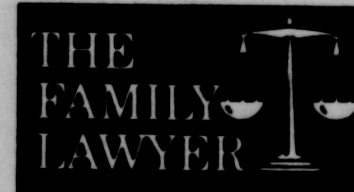

Deferred or exempt men may be forwarded for examinations if they are likely to lose deferred or exempt status within the next six months. No men with random sequences higher than 215 will be forwarded for examination until further notice. All volunteers at draft boards must be inducted ahead of the non-volunteers selected and ordered to report for draft by R.S.N. National call is for 10,000 men, all for the army.

BUDGET REQUESTS SOARING

Major state agency budget requests continued to prompt speculation of a huge tax need next year--perhaps as high as $700 million.

Board of Public Welfare finally officially approved a $2.1 billion biennial spending plan which is $347.6 million above present spending levels. Mental Health-Mental Retardation request of $314 million is $139.7 million above the current level, and colleges and universities want an increase of $258.9 million. Combined with public schools biennial operating proposals of $377.1 million, major agencies of education, mental hospitals - retardation schools and welfare want more than $1 billion more than they now are getting.

Taking Along The Mrs.

Comedians have spun endless tales about the travelling businessman who takes along his secretary, claiming she is his wife. But for tax purposes, the situation may be just the opposite. The businessman may take along his wife and claim she is his secretary. His object, of course, would be to deduct her travelling expenses on his next income tax return.

Is this permissible? Are her expenses properly deductible? Consider this case:

A sales executive took his wife along to a series of conventions, where she kept him company and attended to the usual social amenities. However, she took no part in any business or convention activities.

Her husband tried afterward to deduct her expenses, but a court ruled that he could not. The court felt that, as far as business was concerned, he might just as well have left her home.

Even if a wife provides something more than mere companionship, there still may be insufficient grounds for her husband to take a tax deduction. Suppose she types up occasional notes for him. Or goes along to convention luncheons and dinners. Neither of these services would justify a deduction, according to a ruling of the Internal Revenue Service. As one court put it:

"Being 'helpful' is not enough; a wife's functions while travelling with her husband must be 'necessary' to the conduct of his business before a deduction will be allowed for her expenses."

By contrast, another wife did play a key role in her husband's work while he travelled in Europe, putting in as much time on the job as he did. Furthermore, their itinerary was chosen solely for business reasons, with no detours for "places of interest." In fact, she did no sightseeing at all.

Weighing these circumstances, a court concluded that her trip really was a business necessity and her expenses deductible. The court treated these expenses just like telephone bills or postage or any other of the costs of making a living.

Letters to the Editor

July 18, 1970

Dear Friend -

When in your valuable paper, you ring bells of yesteryear, like the fire horse of old that has been put out to graze, I jump the fence and rush to the scene of action. In today's parlance you turn me on.

But old age does have its compensations. We senior citizens have the exquisite pleasure of saying "I remember when" and some folks will even listen to us. There are not too many left to contradict however.

I remember in the 1890's, standing on the south side of the First National Bank and watching a "magic lantern" flash the results of the Grover Cleveland election on the opposite wall of Hefley's furniture store. Cleveland won as I remember and this was his third try, having won the first time and defeated the second.

John M. and J. D. Hefley carried furniture and also buggies and coffins. This was a very popular store for young men to work as clerks. I remember John O. Wolf, Percy Branch and the beloved Hubert Hefley having clerked there at times. One morning a popular citizen of Cameron came in with the startling announcement that he wanted to buy a coffin for himself. Mr. Jeff Hefley, showing not the least surprise or emotion took on this customer. Mr. Hefley seemed extremely interested in the sale, using all of his salesmanship, of which he had plenty. He told him the difference between the woods, the prices and just why he would suggest certain ones for the customer. Well the upshot was that Mr. Hefley seemed so anxious to make a sale, that the customer decided not to buy. Of course this was Mr. Hefley's strategy in steering the man from suicide.

And I well remember riding a donkey to the picnic at the city park where Hogg and Clarke were to hold their famous debate. I only remember Hogg for his great bulk but of course the world remembers him for his great brain.

I have heard many speeches from that city park pavilion, in latter years I well remember hearing a leading man's candidacy being completely demolished by our own Tom Henderson who was speaking for the other candidate. Mr. Henderson's man won and became Governor of Texas, a great Governor.

Your friend,
Don L. Avriett

Dear Sir:

I wonder if you would know of any information about a man that was named Oscar F. McAnally who used to publish and edit the newspaper at Cameron by the name of The Cameron Herald, for more than 20 years, before the year of 1908. (He may have died in 1908).

Mr. McAnally was a half brother, to my great-uncle, Dan McFarland, who at one time, issued his paper, titled the Bulletin at Buckholts in 1908. (He had to give his paper up, as he couldn't get help to run it.)

I would appreciate hearing from you, if your paper has any records or information on newspaper offices at Cameron, in years gone by, and any background on people running them. Thank you Sincerely,

Mrs. Raymond Loyd

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

Me talking about fashions is about like a blacksmith's running a beauty shop or an economist running a bank, but the economic possibilities for farmers in the fluctuating lengths of women's skirts forces me to do it.

According to all the newspapers I've been reading lately, the fashion experts have decided that midl - skirts, not mini - skirts, will be in style this fall, and though the women are howling about it, come fall most of the minis are expected to be thrown away as the women fall in line in longer dresses.

Personally I have never understood how women can be so easily persuaded to throw away one wardrobe and buy another just because some Frenchman told them to, but I never argue with a fact, and it's a fact it happens. He announces about this time of the year what women will be wearing in the fall, and blamed if the word doesn't spread all over the world, from London to New York to Cameron, and 90 per cent of the women comply.

This got me to thinking. There's a great possibility here for farmers.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Disease Meeting Draws Interest

By J. D. Moore

County interest shown in plant

COUNTY INTEREST SHOWN IN PLANT DISEASE MEETING - A number of plant disease specimens were brought to the plant disease meeting held at the county agents office on July 16. Zinc deficiency, powdery mildew, honey dew, and other common problems were identified. A major problem in plant disease diagnosis is to determine if the condition is due to a physiological or pathological condition. For example, many plant leaves show a scorched condition from high temperatures such as we had in early July. Then too, black aphids (plant lice) appear the latter part of July and early August. These insects sting pecan leaves and deposit a chemical which eventually defoliates the pecan tree. Many think this is a disease condition.

Information is available in the form of publications, demonstrations, as well as commercial sources to help prevent these conditions. The county extension office has information available to help control most plant disease problems.

Many plants, such as Crepe Myrtle, Rose and Euonymus are showing signs of a fungal disease known as powdery mildew. This disease, as the name implies, gives the plant the appearance of being covered with a powdery substance such as talc.

Powdery mildew is difficult to control; however, if the homeowner will use the proper fungicide and make repeated applications, a successful job can be done. Fungicides which can be used are Karathane, Actidione PM, and Folpet. Sulfur may also be used. However, use sulfur with care or burn may occur if environmental conditions are not optimal for its use. Other fungicides such as Captan and Zineb are not effective for powdery mildew; thus many homeowners do not get the desired control when using them.

Repeated applications of the recommended material should be made at five to seven day intervals until a minimum of three have been made. Weather conditions may necessitate additional applications to keep the disease controlled. The secret to powdery mildew control is selection of the right material and its repeated use.

FIRE BLIGHT OF PEAR

Fire blight, a bacterial disease, is the most important limiting disease factor of Pear culture in Texas. It attacks as many as 75 other hosts, including quince, pyracantha, holly, cherry laurel, and other local plants.

Damage occurs as blossom blight, twig blight, resulting in the "dying back" of the limbs. This disease condition is mentioned here because resistant pear varieties should be considered in addition to a fungicide spray program.

Milam Landowners Are Boosting Conservation

Pollution, ecology and environment are big words in the news today. Edwin Fischer, who has been a director on the Central Texas S&WCD board for over 30 years, says that soil conservation was the popular phrase at one time.

He emphasized further that it is not the descriptive phrases or words but the end product that is important. These new words have created new public interest and awareness which will help boost the overall conservation effort in his district, he says. Fischer has pride in the way the Milam County landowners who he represents, are doing the job on pollution control, ecology balance and environmental improvement. He points to the resource conservation achievements of his neighbors and friends as he refers to the objectives accomplished.

"Look at the grassed waterways, pastures and outlets on farms owned by Joe Mueck, Anton Moraw, or any of the Vrazel

3 Students Tapped For FB Seminar

Three high school students from Milam County will travel by chartered bus, Tuesday, July 28, to Baylor University in Waco where they will attend a Citizenship Seminar July 28-31 conducted by the Texas Farm Bureau.

They are Gordon Haisler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Haisler of Buckholts, Texas; Patsy Hengst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hengst of Thorndale, Texas; and Jay Wise, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Wise of Milano, Texas.

The Milam County Farm Bureau is sponsoring the local students at the four-day training school.

Four outstanding, nationally-known lecturers will address the Waco training school, according to Robert Jungmann of Buckholts, president of the Milam County Farm Bureau.

They are Dr. Clifton L. Ganus, Jr., president of Harding College, Searcy, Ark.; Dr. C. L. Kay, vice president for public affairs of Lubbock Christian College, Lubbock; John Noble, Muncy, Pa., author of "I Was a Slave in Russia;" and W. Cleon Skousen, Salt Lake City, Utah, author, lawyer, educator, and former FBI agent.

SAFETY CAMPAIGN gets local boost as County Judge O. B. Harden signs proclamation declaring July 19-25 Farm and Ranch Safety Week in Milam County. Robert Jungmann, president of the Milam County Farm Bureau, safety campaign sponsor, watches the signing. Jungmann said the accidental death rate for farm and ranch residents in Texas averaged over 250 per year during the decade of the sixties. He stressed the use of "accident protection" tools such as seat belts, fire extinguishers, SMV emblems, tractor roll-overs and crush resistant cabs.

Wholesale Prices Rise 2% In June

The advance brought the All Commodities Wholesale Price Index to 117.0 (1957-59=100), confirming the preliminary estimated reported previously. The June index was 3.4 percent above a year earlier.

Industrial commodities edged up 0.1 percent during the month. Processed foods and feeds rose 0.6 percent, and farm products were 0.3 percent higher.

Wholesale prices rose 0.2 percent in June, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported, the same rate of increase as in May.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the All Commodities Wholesale Price Index was up 0.1 percent in June. Industrial commodities rose 0.3 percent after adjustment but processed foods and feeds were down 0.7 percent. Farm products edged up 0.1 percent after allowance for the seasonal pattern.

The moderate advance for industrial commodities on a seasonally unadjusted basis in June reflected gains for five major commodity groups which slightly outweighed declines for six other groups.

The single most important influence on the industrial index was a boost of 7.8 percent in cigarette prices, the first change since June of last year.

Metals and metal products continued to move up but at a slower pace than in recent months as increases for steel mill products, iron and steel scrap and variety of fabricated metal products were partially offset by declines for nonferrous metals.

The rate of advance for machinery and equipment accelerated somewhat in June. Prices of metal commercial furniture were up substantially; passenger cars were higher; apparel, house furnishings and cotton products also rose.

There were increases for concrete products, concrete ingredients, and glass. Gasoline prices reversed their gains in May and distillates were down.

FERTILIZER VIA PIPELINE

More than a quarter million tons of fertilizer was sent to market via pipeline last year and experts are predicting the total will double this year. The idea was labeled as a "pipe" dream only a few years ago.

A&M Grant To Research Lamb

COLLEGE STATION - A $23,650 research grant from the American Sheep Producers Council has been made to the Texas A&M University Agricultural Market Research and Development Center.

Purpose of the award is to support market testing of a completely new line of lamb products.

Dr. Robert Branson of the A&M Agricultural Economics and Sociology Department, center coordinator, said the tests will be made in Tyler and in Tulsa, Okla.

He said the grant contract is the 15th research project of the center since its beginning in February of last year. Grants received by the center now total $137,500.

Branson explained that the test will be supported by television and newspaper advertising, and the cooperation of major food chains in Tulsa and Tyler.

"In addition to test-marketing seven cuts of lamb, the ability of new products and the accompanying advertising to increase total lamb sales in the two cities will be measured," the economist pointed out.

Product sales will be measured by a series of retail food store audits. Consumer opinions of the new lamb products and advertising penetration will then be obtained by household surveys.

The research, Branson said, will be designed and conducted by the center in cooperation with Lou Havrilla, project director of the American Sheep Producers Council. Testing will take about five months and will start in late September or early October.

Monfort Packing Company in Colorado will supply the new lamb products.

Waterways Need Care

By T. H. McBay

Cooperators and landowners within the Little River-San Gabriel Soil & Water Conservation District should check their waterways for any needed maintenance. Outlet ends or any gully erosion in the waterway should be shaped, filled in sodded and fertilized.

Shaping of gullies in old waterways should be given special attention. The area should be compacted when possible. After shaping and packing the gullies, approximately six to eight inches of topsoil should be spread over the shaped area. Bermuda chunk sod or sprigs should be planted thick to enable a quick, dense cover on the area.

Fertilizer applied on the areas that have been shaped in waterways should be at least double the rate as compared to where no erosion has occurred. It is a good time to fertilize the entire waterway while spot shaping and sodding the erosive areas.

Weeds and other competitive plants need to be controlled, as a part of your waterway maintenance. Spraying or shredding competitive plants will allow the grass to become better established and furnish more cover to protect the waterway from erosion.

Assistance is available to help you with any waterway maintenance problem you may have. Contact your local Soil Conservation Service office in Bartlett.

4-H CLUB ACTIVITIES

By Fred Schuetz

LAST COLUMN

It seems hard to believe, but over two years have passed since I wrote the first 4-H Notes in Milam County. Now it is time, and it is with regret, that I must write my last column in Milam County.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the people of Milam County for their help, consideration, and friendship given me during my stay in the county.

A special thanks goes to the 4-H'ers, adult leaders and parents who have given me all the help and support that is needed for a strong 4-H program. You are some of the most outstanding people I have ever been associated with. Only you, the people of the county can build a strong program and I urge you to continue the good work.

Again thank you for your help and support and for making me and my family part of your county and way of life.

It won't be long before you'll be buying a new boat . . . that is if you haven't done so already.

Seems like nearly every family has at least one boat. It's "The Thing" nowadays. Double garages, or dual carports, now sport at least one car and one boat; sometimes two boats and one car, with the car—more often than not—left outside in the weather.

A statistical study made by the Boating Industry Association and the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers reveals that in 1969 the recreational boating industry increased its annual dollar volume in retail sales by an estimated 4.5 per cent. Peak now is $3,292,000,000. That's an aggregate total of nearly three and a third BILLION DOLLARS. Wow!

Included in these purchases are new and used boats, motors, accessories, safety equipment, fuel, insurance, docking, maintenance, launching, storage, repairs and club memberships.

Total number of boats in use in the United States jumped an additional 2.4 per cent or 206,000. This made the grand total 8,646,000 water pleasure craft. That's a lot of boats!

A million more people participated in recreational boating in 1969, with the total estimated at 43,230,000. This also represented a 2.4 per cent increase in those using the waterways more than once or twice during the year. It's obvious that boating is growing in appeal as more people seek leisure-time activities for the whole family.

Figures reveal also that sales of larger and more expensive boats and motors contributed to the general rise in dollar volume.

Like to know the breakdown on the boat population? Here it is by types of boats:

Inboard motorboats (including auxiliary-power sailboats) . . . 615,000.

Outboard boats . . . 5,101,000.

Sailboats without inboard power . . . 598,000.

Rowboats, canoes, dingies, prams, and other miscellaneous craft in use, many with outboard power . . . 2,332,000.

Number of outboard motors in use during 1969 reached 7,101,000 . . . topping seven million for the first time. Sales during the year reached an estimated 510,000 . . . a 2 per cent rise.

There was a marked increase in the size of the average outboard motor sold in 1969. In '68 the average outboard ran 31.5 hp, in '69 it was 33.1.

Motors of 45 hp and up commanded 34 per cent of the market.

Motors up to 6.9 hp dropped from 29 per cent to 28 per cent.

Motors 7 to 19.9 hp dropped from 21 to 19 per cent of sales.

Those 20 to 44.9 hp fell by the same figure . . . down from 21 per cent of sales to 19.

Naturally there was a preference for larger boats to go with the desire for motors of greater horsepower. This shoved the average length up to 15.9 feet . . . the highest ever.

Estimated sales of outboard boats hit a 10-year high in 1969, reaching 301,000.

Sales of stern-drive boats continued to climb, hitting an estimated 235,000 units.

Marinas, boat yards and yacht clubs increased by 100 for a total of 5,900 such facilities on the American scene.

So, the popularity of boating goes up, up, and up . . . nationwide. As for Texas . . . our guess is that the percentages are even greater for the Lone Star State. Why shouldn't they be . . . with Texas' multiplicity of impoundments and virtually year-around boating weather?

Your Weekly Horoscope

June 18 thru June 24

ARIES (March 21-April 19): There is a Gem about to come into your life, Ari. A Gem who will sparkle and shine and dazzle you with wit and intelligence. Can you bear up under the strain? After all, you are a fire sign and Gem is an air sign, and fire needs air, you know. But a mighty gust of air can put out a fire. Or make it burn brightly. Depending.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Interesting tid bit will be whispered into your ear before third day. Discount it completely. Source is unreliable. By fifth day you should get message you've been waiting for. Last two days are for dumb, dull duty. Do it without grumbling.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Unexpected meeting with new person in week ahead which should prove more than just a passing fancy. This new relationship could be with an Ari or an early Taurus. Be alert, and continue to circulate socially. Contact dear one on fourth day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't spend too much time dreaming of things which are to come. Moonswearie. Concentrate on today. Energy should build on third day and continue until end of week. If you and Virg haven't as yet found each other, this just may be the week. Wheee.

LEO (July 23-August 22): Did events take an upward swing last week Leo? If so, you should be purring contentedly. If not, you are probably growling and snarling all over the place. Well, it's all up to you Leo darling. In the final shuffle, you are the dominate one who makes or breaks the bank.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): You are going to get a dose of the truth in the week ahead, Virg, which will be about as delightful as a tablespoon of castor oil. You would rather perhaps hear a hundred lies?

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): You tend to be most tolerant, Libra. Is it because you just don't care, or because you wish tolerance in return? Week ahead will be most interesting in this department. Olga sees the maximum stress test shaping up.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Absolutely wild week coming up, Scorp. Talk about wheels within wheels, and mirrors within mirrors... as far as Scorp is concerned it will be triangles within triangles. In short, a typical Scorp week.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): You are approaching a fork in the road, Saj. The decisions you make in the next week may alter your entire career. Knowing Saj's love for adventure, you'll no doubt take the road less traveled by.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): Ding, dong. The bell tolls in week ahead, Cap. But please don't send someone out to seek for whom. You know darn well it tolls for thee. But by last of week Cap will be putting the pieces of the puzzle together and coming up with astute solution. Goody.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): All rested up from last week, Aquarius my love? Olga hopes so, for the one coming up is a hella. Full of demanding, depressing detail. However, one small note of joy: by end of week you will not a slight domestic detente. It's not much, true, but better than nothing.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): Pisces, Pisces, in the brook, there's a Taurus angling with a hook. And few know the angles like a Taurean. So watch out baby, the bait is loaded.

On June 27 Mrs. Sarah Bowling attended the wedding of her granddaughter, Carolyn Jean Hohenhaus to Colen Sinclair in a beautiful chapel in Las Vegas, Nevada.

In looking over the long list of churches listed in the phone directory Mrs. Bowling decided Las Vegas evidently is not a gambling town. On Sunday morning she attended services at the First Southern Baptist Church in Las Vegas. There was a large congregation with perhaps 6 or 8 visitors. In the afternoon she attended 5 o'clock Catholic Mass with her son-in-law, Harold Hohenhaus. A very large congregation was there also. "Of course," she said, "we won't discuss how easily one can spend $5.00 on the game of chance, Gause."

Mrs. Bowling returned to Bellflower, California with her daughter, Tiny, (Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hohenhaus and children). Then on July 4th she attended the very enjoyable reception for the newly weds. From the reception she went home with Helen and Roah Miller and remained with the Millers for a few days. Next she flew to Tucson, Arizona with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Eric (Mary) Ashton and family.

On July 10th she went with the Ashtons to Phoenix, Arizona and attended the Ringling Bros. Barnum Bailey Circus. They brought back memories of the GOOD OLD DAYS when the circus came to Gause.

On Saturday July 11th she flew from Tucson to San Antonio and visited with the Wilsons and other relatives. From there she went by bus to Seguin for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Nell Smith and son Thomas and her brother, Ralph Todd and wife and son, Robert of Oakland, Minn.

On Sunday July 19 all had a family get together at Mrs. Smiths which was attended by between 30 and 35 relatives. Those attending from Gause were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Browder, Mrs. Arile Shaw and Mrs. Bowling. Mrs. Bowling returned to Gause with the Browners and Mrs. Shaw Sunday night.

HOUSTON HOME -- Sam Houston built this story-and-a-half house at Huntsville in 1847 while he served in the U. S. Senate. The kitchen is housed in the log building on the right. And Houston built another log building in front of the house to serve as his law office.

Houston Home Contrasts Frontiersman's Legend

HUNTSVILLE

General Sam Houston, who more than any other man gave Texas its independence, is enshrined here on the grounds where he lived his last years.

The shrine is set among tall, old trees on the hills Houston loved.

Here he found his happiest days at the height of a tumultuous career in war and politics. And it was to these hills and woods he came to find a final quiet before death.

A spring of cool, silver water breaks from beneath the trees near where Houston used to meet with visiting Indian friends and etches its course across the red earth to feed a small pond before it winds under a footbridge and loses itself in the folds of a hill.

The scene is a tranquil one, contrasting with the familiar image of Houston as a bold figure who carved a legend in war and politics.

But out of the shadows cast by the oaks and the sycamores and from the timeless music made by the tiny spring emerges Sam Houston, the gentle husband and father as well as the sturdy frontiersman.

Down one of the grassy slopes is the main building of the shrine, the red brick Sam Houston Museum with four magnificent white columns in front.

Two of Houston's homes are nearby.

Across a footbridge and surrounded by a white picket fence, just as it was when Houston lived, is the house he built in 1847.

The white, story-and-a-half structure has six rooms divided by an open breezeway, or "dog run," and furnished with pieces from the Houston era.

Two of the eight Houston children were born here, and Houston worked in the log law office nearby.

Writing to a friend about the home, Houston described it as a "bang up place."

Beyond this house is another Houston home, the one in which 117 years ago he died.

The house, built in 1858 to resemble a steamboat, was brought from across town to the site of the shrine.

Houston retired to the steamboat house in 1861 after a secession - bent legislature removed him from the governor's office when he refused to swear allegiance to the Confederacy.

"I love Texas too well to bring strife and bloodshed upon her," declared the old general.

Brokenhearted, the man who had led Texas' fight for independence and defeated Mexican Dictator-General Santa Anna at San Jacinto took his wife, Margaret, back to Huntsville. He died two years later when a cold turned into pneumonia.

In his long and often stormy career Houston was representative and governor of Tennessee, commander of the tiny Army of the Republic of Texas, president of the republic, senator from Texas and twice governor of the young state.

Once he had dreamed of becoming president of the United States, as was his friend and mentor, Andrew Jackson.

All of these colorful episodes in Houston's life are depicted at the shrine.

The story begins at the museum with a mosaic of the Houston family coat of arms set in the floor of the central room.

Towering over the room is the commanding figure of General Houston. He is pictured standing in the halls of Congress and lying beneath an oak after he was wounded in the leg at the Battle of San Jacinto.

In case hangs the leopard skin vest he wore to Congress in 1846, shocking some of the more proper residents of Washington.

Other displays speak of the days he spent with the Cherokee Indians who took the giant man from Tennessee into their tribe.

Houston the tender husband is revealed in the letters he sent his young wife, who wrote poetry to him.

"My dear Margaret," began the tough, old campaigner in one letter, "I have little news but my love, I am so unhappy while separated from you that I feel myself most happy when writing to you."

Visitors to the shrine may be shown the museum and introduced to General Houston by a woman who has come to know him well.

Mrs. Grace Longino has been its director since 1953 when annual attendance was only about 18,000. Under her enthusiastic direction the shrine today attracts 50,000 visitors a year.

Mrs. Longino, her staff, and the citizens of Huntsville each spring celebrate the birthday of Margaret Houston. They dress in costumes of the Houston period and host thousands of visitors to the shrine.

Visitors are escorted over the grounds and told about Houston; they are shown the home where the two children were born, and they are shown the steamboat house where he died with two final words: "Margaret. . . Texas."

WORSHIP IN CHURCH

...THE BAR OF JUSTICE IN MY COURT.

"Man must pay for the error he makes, the sin he commits... he must reap what he sows." Surely God tempers justice with mercy in His judgments upon us every day. It is that way too, in this judge's court, because he thinks principally of salvation for the man before him. Too often transgressors, both young and old, resent the kindly-intended judge. He sits in court to serve his country and the will of God. It would be well to remember that God shall bring every work into judgment. And that people who go to church more, go to court less.

New fashion excitement for Fall is adding lustre to one of the best-known names in women's wear. Davidow, famed for years for suits and coats of superb quality, is introducing a new haute couture collection in fine stores throughout the country. Created by a talented new designer, Umberto Manzo, the collection is called "Couture 71".

The sumptuous wrap-around coat, shown here, is typical of the new Fall styles in Davidow's trend-setting collection. Designed to help you wrap up more comfort and compliments on the Fall fashion scene, this Umberto Manzo original is lavishly collared, cuffed and hemlined with Norwegian Blue Fox. The fabric is fine-quality English wool with dramatic diagonal striping, and the fashion features include a deep V collar and self-belt. The luxurious wrap comes in misses sizes in a handsome taupe/cream coloring. You'll find the new Couture 71 collection by Davidow at the top fashion stores in this area.

August Draft Call Is 560

The August draft call for Texas is 560, and no man will be selected and ordered for induction with a random sequence number higher than 195, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Friday.

The August quota is down from 817 in July, which is being filled with men having random sequence numbers no higher than 195.

The state quota for pre-induction physical and mental examinations in August is 1,490, down from 1,601 in July. Men sent for these examinations will be limited to those with random sequence numbers 1 through 215. Deferred or exempt men, such as teachers, college students, and vocational or trade school students with random sequence numbers 1 through 215 may be forwarded for these examinations if they are likely to lose their deferred or exempt status during the next six months, Colonel Schwartz said.

No men with random sequence numbers above 215 will be forwarded for examination until further notice. No authority has been received to examine men born in 1951, whose random sequence numbers were established by the drawing in Washington July 1.

All volunteers at the draft boards must be inducted ahead of the non-volunteers selected and ordered to report for induction by random sequence number.

The Texas induction quota of 560 for August is the state's share of a national call for 10,000 men, all for the army.

SWIMMING LESSONS

Census Cry Depends On Comparison

The Texas Lumberman's Association, who's prosperity is determined by the construction market, says the gloom over 1970 census figures depends on your point of comparison.

The LAT says the census in Texas is actually impressive. When the Lumbermen's Association was formed 84 years ago and John Ireland was Governor of Texas (Grove Cleveland was in the White House), San Antonio was the largest Texas city with a population of 30,000. Dallas ranked second with a little over 27,000 residents; Galveston boasted 24,500; Houston, 23,137; Fort Worth 22,000; Waco 17,000 and Austin was just shy of 12,000. At that time, Amarillo was a little hamlet of 400 people and Lubbock didn't even exist. Port Arthur was known as Aurora which vanished in 1887. Beaumont was the big city in the southeast part of the State. It had 3,000 people and eight sawmills and a shingle mill.

EGG INDUSTRY SHIFTS

The number of farms selling eggs decreased sharply, contractual arrangements gained importance and production shifted to the South and West during the 1950's and 60's, reports the USDA Economic Research Service.

New Vocational Course To Offer Girls High School - Work - Training

Yoe High School will offer a new course in vocational home-making this fall that will combine school, vocational training and income for high school age girls.

Mrs. Dorothy Foster, teacher-coordinator for the program, said they hoped it would be a help to employer and employee. "Students will go to class a half day and be available for work 3 hours a day or 15 hours per week," Mrs. Foster said.

She said educators have become increasingly concerned about students who can look forward to little more than low-paying jobs of an unskilled nature when they leave high school. The Vocational Act of 1963 and amendments of 1968 emphasize that all high school students should receive some kind of vocational training. Home Economics is assuming some responsibility for this training by adding gainful employment courses to the high school curriculum. The courses are designed to meet the needs of students who, for a variety of reasons, do not plan to continue their education after graduation from high school, or who have a particular interest in an occupation requiring home-economics knowledge and skills.

"It is also hoped that the courses will give students who have lost interest in high school a reason for remaining in school until they graduate," Mrs. Foster said.

Mrs. Foster pointed out that the various subject matter areas of home economics are relevant to a variety of occupations. "There is a need in many occupations for employees who have had some training, but not necessarily a college degree or even college credit," she added.

During the past few years, an increasing number of people: Eat outside the home; Stay in nursing homes; Leave their children with baby sitters or care centers; Desire alterations or repairs on their clothing; Want help with decorating their homes;

Travel and require clean, pleasant surroundings at night;

"With the expanded demand for services, the need for food service, employees, dietitian aides, child care aides, clothing assistants, home furnishings aides, housekeeping management assistants is apparent," Mrs. Foster said. "These are examples of only a few of the occupations to which home economics can make a contribution in terms of trained personnel."

She emphasized that the purpose of the wage earning courses is not only to give high school students a job skill, but also to help them advance more rapidly and perform more efficiently.

The Cooperative Education Program combines classroom instruction with three hours per day on-the-job training. The pre-employment laboratory education program provides technical instruction and practical experience in the classroom for two consecutive hours daily.

Examples of approved occupations include: bridal consultant, child care aide, companion to elderly, clothing assistant, dietitian aide, fabric coordinator, floral designer, food caterer, food service employee, housekeeping management assistant, tester of foods, or cook.

Mrs. Foster said that any business or individual interested in the program as an employer or employee-student may contact her at 697-3641 between the hours of 9 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. each day.

What have you done lately that makes you feel proud?

Maybe it was standing up and singing the National Anthem at the last ball game you attended.

Or maybe you hung an eagle over your fireplace.

Or put the flag out on the 4th. Fine.

Now why don't you do something to really help your country. Like buying a U.S. Savings Bond.

You can get them at any bank, or sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

When you buy a Bond you can feel proud that you've helped your country and, at the same time, helped yourself.

Maybe it's time you bought a Bond.

And felt proud.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

Elm Creek Farm, Cameron, Texas, has applied to the Texas Water Quality Board for an initial waste control order pertaining to a variable amount of wastewater from its existing dairy operation which is located on the east side of F.M. 2269 and approximately two (2) miles northwest of Cameron in Milam County, Texas. The rainfall runoff from the company property enters an unnamed tributary of Elm Creek on company property, thence to Elm Creek, thence to the Little River. The dairy operation is in an enclosed building and all wastewater from the area is channeled into retention facilities where it is wholly retained and utilized for land irrigation on company controlled property. A public hearing on this application will be held in the Texas Water Development Board, 3rd Floor Auditorium, 301 West 2nd Street, Austin, Texas, at 10:00 a.m. on August 21, 1970 to receive evidence on the conditions, if any, under which the order may be issued. Additional data will be developed at the hearing, but further technical information concerning any specific aspect of the discharge, if available, can be obtained by writing the Texas Water Quality Board, 1108 Lavaca Street, Austin, Texas 78701. 1-tc

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

To most of us the only time we consciously think about the water we drink is on those hot summer days during work or play when a good, cool drink of water is really a thirst-quencher, and then we think only of the pleasure we receive from that drink and not of the rules and regulations and hard work that goes into making our public water supply safe and sanitary.

But that job is a very important public health service of the Texas State Department of Health.

The Sanitary Engineering Division of the State Health Department has been involved ever since 1915 in efforts to preserve the purity of state and community water supplies. The Water Supply unit of that division, operating under state law, has so thoroughly blanketed the field of water sanitation with State Health Department engineers that water-borne diseases from public drinking water supplies have virtually disappeared.

Drinking water supplies serving communities, common carriers, food processing plants, dairies, and the water supply of public parks are subjected to penetrating inspection.

Plans for new systems are reviewed for health hazards. Water utility operators are certified as competent after being examined. Field inspectors from the State Health Department work to bring all public water supplies into strict compliance with the rules of the State Board of Health, and of good sanitary practices.

Today there are some 450 public water supplies across the state that have been approved by the State Health Department and certified as safe and sanitary.

One of the biggest volumes of work done in this water supply service is the bacteriological and chemical analysis of water samples.

There are 25 Health Department laboratories across the state in addition to the state lab at Austin that handle the tremendous volume of samples sent in for bacteriological analysis. Some 12,000 to 18,000 samples per month are processed and records kept on each sample.

The Health Department Laboratory in Austin also conducts a chemical analysis of public water supplies. This service, because of its complexity and volume, is not available to private individuals.

The chemical analysis determines dangerous, or even undesirable, concentrations of solids and minerals, including chloride, fluoride, sulfates, iron, manganese, and many others. The PH, the acid or base quality of water, is also determined. Some 12,000 to 15,000 samples are tested chemically every year by State Department of Health laboratories.

More Meat Per Hour

One hour's work in a factory buys more food today than it did 20 and 30 years ago. Today's pay for an hour of factory work will buy 2.6 pounds of round steak in contrast to 1.5 pounds 20 years ago and 1.8 pounds 30 years ago. Today's work hour also buys 3.7 pounds of bacon compared with 1.7 pounds both 20 and 30 years ago.

Proposed Amendment Analyzed

State Rep. Dan Kubiak this week issued an analysis of proposed Amendment 5 which if authorized would permit counties to issue road and waterway bonds in any amount not to exceed one-fourth of the assessed valuation of the real property in the county.

Kubiak listed arguments pro and con as:

For Amendment 5—
1. Construction and maintenance of sufficient roads and turnpikes to meet the traffic needs of rapidly growing Texas have been hampered by the constitutional debt limit and the requirements of a two-thirds vote of the qualified electors. The proposed Amendment No. 5 would alleviate this situation.

2. The proposed Amendment's requirement that bonds may be issued only on approval of a majority vote provides adequate assurance that tax burdens cannot be increased without the full knowledge and majority consent of the individuals to be affected.

At the same time, the amendment modifies present requirements enabling a minority of only one-third of the voters to override wishes of the majority.
Against Amendment 5—
1. The majority vote requirement of the proposed amendment would make it too easy for a bond election to pass. When bond elections are called with the timing selected to assure turnout of only those in favor of an issue, a majority of the voters could, in fact, be disenfranchised.
2. The liberalized debt limit in the proposed amendment is much broader than it appears, and the reduction in the number of voters required for approval of the extended indebtedness could open the door to the squandering of taxpayers' money.

A fascia board is a broad band usually used with moldings for decorative effect.

FRANCHISE

Councilmen also heard complaint from Tommy Bass, owner of "the Taxi Co.," who asked that non-franchised operators of taxis in Cameron be stopped from hauling passengers. Police officials said it requires proof that an unfranchised operator is taking fares for hauling passengers and such proof is difficult to establish. Shearin said warnings have been issued. Street Supt. Hale advised councilmen to close city dump grounds on weekends, starting on an August 1 date recommended by Mayor Perrin. Hale said it was costing about $25 a weekend to keep the dump open for people wishing to haul their own trash and only a few have brought theirs out. Council also authorized City Sec. Buddy Fuller to negotiate with officials of Milan County on a new fire control contract in which the Cameron Fire Dept. dispatches certain equipment for reimbursement during a 12-month period. And Council authorized a routine transfer of funds which would balance a few depleted accounts and approved monthly bills.

Do fish hear? Experts say they hear through their swim bladder, a gas-filled organ that amplifies sound waves. In some fish it is in direct connection with the ear.
